MEN OUTDONE AT ELECTIONEERING BY WOMEN AT POLLS

BOY HERO SAVES 35 FROM FIRE

Thirty-five girls were rescued by a brave elevator boy, a dazed man was carried by firemen from the fourth floor, a patrolman was hit across the face accidentally by a whip and there were other thrilling incidents in connection with a fire that necessitated three alarms today in the six-story building at No. 247 Atlantic avenue, opposite India Wharf. The damage was estimated at $25,000.

The elevator boy is John Diggins. The fire started on the fourth floor from a pot of wax that boiled over in the store of the Whittemore-Wright Company. This firm is a dealer in oils, varnishes, wax and other inflammable material. The fire was confined practically to this floor. Floors below suffered water damage.

Rescue Dazed Man.

When the firemen reached the upper floors they found a man wandering about in a sort of dazed condition. His hat was gone. He had tried to find the stairway, but could not find a stairway going downward and had gone toward the roof.

The firemen picked the man up and carried him to the front of the building, lifted him through a window and carried him down a ladder. The man was barely able to tell of his experience. He gave his name as James F. Lachapelle of Lowell, a lawyer for the Boyce Maring Company. He was in the building on business, he said, and soon after the fire started he found himself deserted.

John Diggins, the elevator boy, of No. 30 Orange street, South End, was the hero of the fire. This is the story he told of his experience:

"The first I knew that anything was wrong was when I stopped at the fourth floor and a girl—a new girl, I reckon—ran to me and cried "Fire!" I realized that it was my business to get some of the people from the upper floors.

"I kept the elevator running. The girls came running to the elevator and I put them in and hurried down and back up. The girls behaved very well. None of them fainted, but of course they were excited. I think I carried out about thirty-five girls.

"I made fifteen trips in all. Mr. Sampson, the agent of the building, was about and he did a great deal to keep the girls from getting frightened. Finally he told me not to venture up again and the elevator shaft was filled with smoke. By that time we had all of the tenants out, as we believed.

"But I went up and down two or three times more carrying firemen and they made sure that nobody was in the building.

Rescues Scrub Woman.

George W. Roberts, who was employed on the fourth floor, after assisting Miss Sheehan and Miss Winter to the elevator and reached the street, recalled that a woman who scrubbed the office was on the fourth floor. He went back and found her. She was nearly overcome. She was helped to the elevator and rescued.

On the sixth floor of the building is the office of the British Consul, but as the office does not open until 10 o'clock no one was in the office when the fire started.

Other tenants were: First floor, Peter Crowley, liquors; second floor, W. H. Bradford, printer, and the Heller-Merz Company, dyers; third floor, automobile signal company; fifth floor, August Becker, engraver and Banker and Marston, dyes.

Chief Mullen estimated the loss to the building at $10,000. The Whittemore-Wright company placed their damage at $8,000; the Crowley Liquor Company, $5,000, and other losses were estimated to amount to $5,000, making about $25,000 in all. The fire was out before 11 o'clock.

CAMBRIAN BISECTS WHALE ASLEEP ON WAVE IN MIDOCEAN

Two more steerage steamers, the Allan liner Numidian and the Leland freighter Cambrian, arrived today, each with tales of rough experience in the storm and the Cambrian with an extra chapter about running down a whale.

This whale was asleep at the surface when the Cambrian came bowling along. It was last Saturday, one of the two fair days out of the seventeen it took the freighter to make the run from London.

The lookout thought the whale would move on, but it didn't and, with renewed engines, the liner hit him amidships. This made two whales where one was before, also a fearful lustiness of blood and foam and general thrashing around. The collision with some thirty tons of bone and blubber also gave the Cambrian quite a jar.

Captain Gardner said that for three days last week his engines backed a hurricane and the vessel averaged only three knots an hour.

The Numidian came in five days overdue from Glasgow, with fourteen saloon and thirty-nine steerage passengers. Everyone was glad to get here after a voyage that was one day's fight after another against wind and sea.

BLANCO, MEXICAN REBEL LEADER, IS SHOT TO DEATH

LAREDO, Tex., Jan. 14.—Jose Blanco, the Mexican rebel senator, has been tried and executed by President Madero's troops, according to advices that reached here early today. The courier said the rebel's native state had been put to death with Blanco on the fateful fourth were Madero Saturday, being shot in squads of three, Blanco standing in the last group.

FLOOD SUBSIDING AT CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 14.—The crest of the Ohio river flood reached Cincinnati last night and today the water was stationary. It was expected it would begin to recede today and that it would fall noticeably by night. Three thousand families living near the river were forced to leave their homes. The damage amounts to thousands of dollars. The city council was called for a special session today to consider voting $20,000 to relieve those who are in need.

CALIFORNIA LEAGUE TO FIGHT SOCIALISM

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 14.—The first lobby ever arranged in California, if not the first in the United States, with the single purpose of fighting Socialism, has appeared in the Legislature. Charles H. Harwood, president of the Sound Government League, is at its head. The object of the league is to "reveal in its true colors any socialistic bill presented."

RELATIVE OF GEN. JACKSON DIES HERE

John P. Hughes, aged seventy-nine, who claimed to be a grandnephew of Andrew Jackson, died today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. P. J. Kennedy, No. 94 Day street, Jamaica Plain, after an illness of three months' duration. He was born in Dover, N. H., and was a shoemaker by trade. He is survived by six children.

4 DWIGHT GIRLS IN CONVENT

My daughters are fond of a life devoted to the church. They feel that they can do the greatest good there. They are happy to be there, and I am happy to have them there.—Mrs. Sarah C. Isslei Dwight.

Miss Helen Dwight, daughter of the late Professor Thomas Dwight of the Harvard Medical School and one of the country's most renowned physicians, has just entered the novitiate of the Carmelite Convent on Florence street in Roxbury and thus signified her intention of withdrawing from the world forever.

Miss Helen Dwight's entrance into a convent is the fourth event of the kind in the family recently, three of her sisters, Miss Kathryn and Florence, all taking similar vows from the world into convents.

Dr. Dwight, following his marriage to Sarah C. Isslei, was converted from Unitarianism to the Roman Catholic belief. The Dwight mansion is at No. 36 Beacon street. The five daughters—Margaret, Helen, Mary, Florence and Kathryn—the son, Joseph, and the beautiful wife long formed one of the most prominent groups among the city's social entertainers.

Now all this is changed. Only one daughter, Margaret, and the son live with the mother.

Mary Dwight, who last September entered the convent of the Notre Dame in Belgium, is now a novice there. Florence Dwight is a postulant at the St. Regis Convent in Seneca, N. Y. Kathryn is a sister at the convent of Notre Dame in Roxbury and Helen is now among the Sisters of Teresita at Mt. Carmel.

Son Went to Monastery.

A few years ago the son, Joseph Dwight, a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and then twenty-two years old, astonished his many wealthy friends by suddenly foregoing the luxuries of his beautiful home and going away to take residence in the Trappist Monastery in Cumberland, R. I. He remained there for more than a year and it was objected by too, would give his life to the church. Later, however, he returned to live with his mother.

The news of the beautiful Helen Dwight's entrance into Mt. Carmel is a two-fold sensation because of the austerity with which this supposedly happy girl has chosen to surround her life.

No Catholic church order of sisters is so carefully secluded and so shut from the world as is the order of Carmelite nuns. Once a woman has taken the vows of this order she can never again return to the world.

WILSON EXPECTED TO HAVE FILLING OF ARCHBALD'S POST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—While President Taft of President Wilson will appoint a successor to Judge Archbald, and whether the Commerce Court will remain in existence long enough to warrant the appointment, were two questions which interested official Washington today following the conviction of the Pennsylvania judge. The general opinion seemed to be that President Taft would go through the formality of nominating a successor to Judge Archbald, who will not be confirmed by the Senate, and the final selection then will rest with President Wilson. The sub-committee of the Senate committee on judiciary reported favorably in favor of a continuance of the court until June 30, 1914, but the full committee has revised that and provided for the continuance of the court only until June 30 of this year, when Chief Justice White probably will designate some circuit judge to sit in the court temporarily.

WILSON HOPEFUL GARDNER WILL WIN

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 14.—President-elect Wilson announced today that he would like to see United States Senator Obadiah Gardner of Maine, Democrat, re-elected, and at the same time denied reports that he had sent word to Maine that he would rather see a Progressive Republican elected to the Senate than a standpat Democrat.

"I am interested in the election of Senator Gardner," said the President-elect, "and I hope he will be chosen."

NAPHEN BOLTS WEEKS

Balloting for a new United States Senator from Massachusetts to succeed W. Murray Crane began this afternoon in joint sessions of the Legislature.

The first break from the Republican caucus nomination of Congressman John W. Weeks came when Representative William J. Napien of Natick announced, prior to the balloting, that he would vote for Ambassador Curtis Guild, Jr., and would not vote for Weeks.

This was the opening evidence of a bolt from the "standpat" nomination of Weeks. Representative Napien is a Republican.

WOMEN GET OUT BIG VOTE

Women fairly outdid the men in getting out the vote in Boston's city election today.

The women were interested in the school board contest between Isaac Harris and Miss Frances G. Curtis, the only question at issue on which women were allowed to vote.

Registration showed nearly 1,200 more women voters than last year. In Ward 13, Miss Curtis' home ward, there was an increase of 142 in feminine registration.

Mrs. Louis D. Brandeis, Mrs. Joseph Lee, Mrs. A. White, Mrs. Cabot and other women prominent in this Beacon Hill ward voted early and were busy getting out other women voters.

The activity of the women was all the more noticeable on account of absence of the usual feverish campaigning among the men. This was due to the short ballot, containing only six names. It was the shortest ballot in the history of Boston city elections.

The voters will also pass on the question of license and on that of establishing an eight-hour day for city employes.

Miss Curtis was in a most hopeful frame of mind as she cast her vote at 9 o'clock.

"Of course I expect to win," she admitted. "Why shouldn't I with the Public School Association behind me and word coming from every direction that there is an overwhelming demand for a woman on the board?"

Miss Curtis hurried away from the voting booth to assist in bringing those women to the polls who were unable to walk down Beacon Hill.

There were many, however, who in spite of extreme age and the crisp weather insisted in walking rather than riding in the automobile. Among these was Mrs. Elizabeth B. Thompson, probably the oldest woman voter to go to the polls today. Mrs. Thompson is eighty-five years old, lives at No. 28 West Cedar street, and came to the polls accompanied by Mrs. Adelaide R. Nutter and Miss Ruth Eldridge.

It is believed the vote will not exceed 40,000 or less than a third of the total registration. This year there are more than 112,000 male voters registered. The women registered number about 11,000.

Says Harris Will Win.

That Isaac Harris, candidate for the School Committee, would defeat Miss Frances G. Curtis, his opponent, by a substantial majority was the declaration of Joseph A. Maynard, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, this afternoon.

"I base this calculation on the fact that each of the Democratic ward chairmen with whom I have been in touch, has

$32 WALTHAM WATCHES SELL AT $10 ABROAD

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—E. J. Fitch, president of the Waltham Watch Company of Waltham, Mass., in the course of a grilling by Representative Rainey of Illinois before the House Ways and Means Committee today, testified that the company had favored the experiment of shipping watch movements abroad without dials, equipping them with foreign dials in Europe and thus preventing their importation into this country without paying a heavy duty.

The tariff law provides that any watch that has been imported or any watches in use while in the home state shall be dutiable. The purpose of this section, Rainey brought out, was to prevent Waltham watches being sold too cheaply in this country and to keep up the prices.

Fitch said that the watch which his company had contracted with the Kingdom Company of the Italian government for $10 was made in the same machine and of the same materials as the watches which were sold here for $32.50. The difference, he explained, was accounted for in the cost of labor in the two countries.

Rainey brought out also that the Waltham company has kept in touch with the customs bodies to see that judge of their watches was returned from Europe.

He explained that the Waltham company desired "to exercise a friendly supervision over everybody in the watch trade."

This was the explanation of some concerns his company had with manufacturers of dials in this country.

TRAIN VICTIM'S DOG ON GUARD BY MASTER'S BODY

Aaron Brown, sixty-five years old, a resident living at No. 9 Brown avenue, Randolph, and employed as night watchman at the Forest Hills car barn, was killed today near the Ryde Park railroad station by a train on the Providence Division of the New Haven road.

The identification was made by friends who knew the little white and tan dog and the police found wandering near the body.

Mr. Brown when returning from work remarked in a store that he would go home and get his dog, and then come and get his morning paper. It was on this errand that Brown was killed.

FINANCE SEARCH FOR POLAR CONTINENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The National Geographic Society intends to finance Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the discoverer of the lands Eskimos, in his efforts to find the Polar continent which scientists believe exists in the Arctic region. The society has voted the sum of $22,500 for this purpose. The American Museum of Natural History of New York will furnish $22,500 more.

worked like a Trojan in getting out the vote," said Maynard.

"Several of the ward chairmen have informed me that members of the Public School Committee shirked to Mr. Harris at the last moment. We look for a big vote for our candidate in Ward 11."

R. J. Bottomly of the Good Government Association said:

"We figure that at least 40,000 votes will be cast today. This will be smaller than last year. This conclusion is based on figures from various wards up to 1.30 p. m. Precinct 6 of Ward 20 up to that hour cast a little over 200 votes. The same time last year the votes totaled 270. There is a considerable falling off in votes in half in town wards. The suburban wards, however, are voting along the same as last year."

Volunteers at Work.

Volunteer committees of the Citizens' Municipal League were on hand in each of the 221 voting precincts. At the same time Democratic ward leaders were busily passing around the word to their followers to "bullet" for James A. (Jerry) Watson, the Council candidate who has been most strongly opposed by the Good Government Association.

The candidates' names were in the following order:

FOR CITY COUNCIL, VOTE FOR ONE.
John J. Attridge
Lewis J. Hewitt
Walter Lee Tuffins
James A. Watson.

FOR SCHOOL COMMITTEE, VOTE FOR ONE.
Isaac Harris.
Miss Frances L. Curtis.

OIL SUGGESTION A JOKE, SAYS MAYOR

Attorney General Wickersham's suggestion to Mayor Fitzgerald that he investigate the oil prices among the retail dealers of Boston is termed a joke by the city's chief executive yesterday. The Mayor said: "I have made an investigation of conditions in Boston, already, and have found that the wholesale price of oil has gone from ten to seventeen cents. The trouble is with the combination behind the wholesale prices."

Demands Federal Law to Put an End to Slaughter of Birds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Declaring that individual States were powerless to prevent the slaughter of migratory birds, Senator George P. McLean of Connecticut urged the Senate to pass the bill setting aside zones of protection for the wild fowl of the country. Senator McLean said Congress since 1903 had spent $3,350,000 in ineffective efforts to stop the ravages of hunters on the game birds, and to overcome the damage their slaughter did to the crops. He declared the annual damage by insects alone, if stopped by birds, would represent a saving of $80,000,000 annually.

"After describing the slaughter of game birds, Senator McLean said:

"If it be true that the migratory birds of the western hemisphere are worth saving, and I shall assume they are, is it not equally true that the State of Connecticut is incompetent and powerless to accomplish this result, single-handed? It must be clear that during six months of the year birds may be killed with impunity, the State of Connecticut to the contrary notwithstanding. No State and no group of States can provide the remedy needed."

HOLLIS LEADS FOR SENATOR IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 14.—The New Hampshire Legislature failed to elect a United States Senator today, no candidate receiving the necessary majority. Henry F. Hollis, the Democratic candidate, led in the voting, with Henry B. Quinby, Republican, second.

One vote was taken in the Senate and House separately after which there was an adjournment until tomorrow when balloting will begin in joint convention. That Hollis and his friends feel sure of his election is indicated by the following telegram from President-elect Wilson:

"Hon Henry F. Hollis Concord, N H

WOODROW WILSON."

The ballot in the House resulted as follows:

Hollis, 192; Quinby, 108; R. W. Pillsbury, Republican, 56; Robert P. Bass, Progressive, 15; John Gilly, Republican, 7; Sherman E. Burroughs, Republican, 7; Thomas Chalmers, Republican, 3; eight other men, six Republicans and two Democrats, each received a vote. Necessary to a choice, 190.

U. S. SENATOR FOR BAY STATE CHOSEN TODAY

elected on the straight ticket and without the Progressive endorsement. But he is of the independent type, as opposed to the reactionary. This is his second year on Beacon Hill. He is opposed to corporation measures and fought them last year on the floor, such as the Western Jrolley merger and the New Haven-Boston & Maine merger bills.

He said today:

I intend this afternoon to vote for Ambassador Curtis Guild, Jr., for United States Senator, believing that he represents the demands of the times, and that he is the kind of man the voters of Massachusetts wanted to replace Crane in the Senate.

I announced several days ago to the AMERICAN that, if the Republican caucus nominated a man who, in my opinion, was not sufficiently progressive to meet with the approval of the voters I should not support the nominee.

I do not believe the nomination of Weeks is satisfactory to the people of Massachusetts. I, therefore, shall not vote for him.

Naples did not participate in the Republican caucus at any time, to the extent of voting. He was present at several of the meetings, but at no time responded to his name. He explained he did not believe in caucuses, and voted last year for direct election of United States Senators, and believed the legislature this year should not make any caucus nomination or elect a Senator without consulting the voters.

Fight for Direct Vote.

Representative John F. Meaney, of Blackstone, one of the Democratic leaders in the House, said he would bring his fight to get an expression of preference from the people on the United States Senatorship before the election of a Senator by the Legislature.

Representative Meaney declared:

The fight is not for over. I intend to make another effort this afternoon in the House to secure the passage of the Senatorial preference primary bill. Under this bill the voters of the State will be given an opportunity on the first Thursday in February to nominate directly candidates for Senator to be voted for the third Tuesday in February. It is provided, the people may declare their choice between the candidates chosen at the primary on the first Thursday.

Urges Popular Vote.

Several Democratic leaders in each branch planned to aid Representative Meaney. He also said he expected the support of the five Bull Moose members and of several independent Republicans.

"The Legislature," said Representative Meaney, "should not elect a United States Senator before having secured an expression of preference from the people. The Legislature last year was on record in favor of direct election of United States Senators. To be consistent the Legislature should now give the people a chance to say whom they want.

Denouncing the nomination of Congressman Weeks for United States Senator as an act of "blind reaction," Matthew Hale of this city, chairman of the Progressive State Committee, declared the Progressives would fight for a direct primary law and failing that, would put up a candidate of their own, "out of the Weeks type."

When Mr. Hale was asked today to express an opinion on the Republican nomination, he began by saying:

"Your leading editorial in the AMERICAN yesterday warning the Republicans of what they were doing expresses my sentiments exactly. I have that editorial in my pocket now."

The editorial to which Mr. Hale refers was headed, "HAVE THEY FORGOTTEN?" The opening paragraph ran:

Do the Republican members of the Legislature appreciate the stakes which they are now presenting in their struggle to send one or the other of two notorious standpat, reactionary Congressmen to the United States Senate from Massachusetts?

Mr. Hale continued:

Calls Weeks Choice Climax.

The nomination of Congressman Weeks is the climax by blind reactionaries who absolutely have not had their eyes opened at all by their experiences.

It ought to demonstrate to every man of Progressive leanings among the Republicans that every hope of reform in the Republican party is vain.

It shows the utter hypocrisy of the recent statement by the Republican party, when it wanted to amalgamate with the Progressives that there was little fundamental difference between the Republican and Progressive parties.

We Progressives in Massachusetts are going to fight today as hard as we can for a direct primary bill. If we get licked on that we shall have our own candidate—not one of the Weeks type, but one who will undoubtedly represent the Progressive spirit of the State.

PLAN RIGID LAWS TO SAFEGUARD INVESTORS HERE

Legislation in Massachusetts to prevent the sale of "wild cat" stocks will be fought for at this session of the General Court. One proposition is for something like what was facetiously called the "Blue Sky Law" of Kansas. This measure was to prevent the sale of worthless stocks to guileless people and not only regulated the dishonest securities but provided that vendors of them had to be licensed.

A bill with this intent was submitted to the Legislature of 1911 and put up to a commission consisting of the Bank Commissioner, the Tax Commissioner and the Attorney-General. The Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, which has a bill of its own, says the commission has filed a measure and there also have been presented.

The Pujo committee will urge Congress to pass a law regulating stock exchanges and clearing houses. It is understood, in fact, it appears that protection of the investor is going to get consideration by several State Legislatures, too.

Sulzer Has a Plan.

It is reported from Albany that Governor Sulzer may support a plan to have a joint conference between the Pujo committee and a commission representing New York State. One suggestion is that Governor Sulzer name the commission and New York solons secure uniformity in Federal and State laws regulating stock and other exchanges, clearing houses, banks and trust companies.

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the Pujo committee, has conferred with Governor Sulzer at Albany. The Governor said he would think it over. "I am getting all the light I can and do not intend to act in the dark, he said.

The Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange has filed at the State House on behalf of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange a bill drafted by a committee consisting of W. J. Mitchell, chairman; George W. Anderson, Charles H. Innes, John H. Fahey, W. H. Lyon, H. W. Briggs and E. F. Fadel, secretary. Representative Thomas E. F. Wilson of Lynn has filed it.

Provides Registration.

It provides that any person or concern which offers any securities for sale in this State in any way must be registered with the Commissioner of Manking. The dealer will have to make statements to the Commissioner of Banking under oath and establish solvency and good repute. One section of the bill reads:

If any circulars or other advertising of stocks, bonds, debentures, certificates of participation or other securities contain any untrue statement, the burden of proof in any action for fraud based thereon shall be on the advertiser or issuer of the circular to show that the untrue statement was made by mistake or was reasonably believed to be true.

The penalty for violating the act is a fine of $3,000 or imprisonment for two years.

J. J. MITCHELL IS OUT FOR WEEKS' SEAT IN HOUSE

Former Congressman John J. Mitchell of Marlboro announced today that he was a candidate for Congress in the Thirteenth District to succeed John W. Weeks, United States Senator-elect. Said Mr. Mitchell:

I am in the fight and am sure of winning. My campaign is under way now. I shall hold rallies in every town and city in the district until the night of election.

Do I fear a Republican candidate? Certainly not. The election of Mr. Weeks to the Senate is the last straw. He is such a stand-patter that the people of this district will simply revolt at the candidacy of any Republican.

Those who claim to know a thing or two in politics say Mr. Mitchell will have no opponent for the Democratic nomination and that he will win over any Republican.

Mayor J. Henry Gleason of Marlboro Republican has announced that he is a candidate for the vacancy.

Ex-Senator Charles L. Pearson of Brookline, George S. Smith of Newton, former president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, and ex-Mayor George Hutchinson of Newton have been mentioned as likely Republican candidates. Dr. William H. Murphy of Ward 25, Boston, says he is also a candidate for the Republican nomination. He was active in the gubernatorial campaign of Colonel Everett C. Benton.

Ex-Representative Norman H. White of Brookline, chairman of the State Commission on Economy and Efficiency, and for several candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, but now an enrolled Progressive, today announced his candidacy for Congressman Weeks' seat. He announced that he would seek the endorsement of the Progressives and that he might also make an effort to win the Republican nomination.

"I shall make my fight on a strictly progressive platform," declared Mr. White. "I am absolutely opposed to the present policies of the machine-ruled Republican party in this State. I believe that the party should be liberalized if it is to continue as a power in the politics of the State."

Governor Foss will call a special election in the district to fill the vacancy.

Second—A four-cylinder "Little" runabout automobile will be given to the candidate who polls the highest vote BY SUBSCRIPTION between Wednesday, January 1, and Wednesday, January 15, at 10 p. m.

Candidates in the $40,000 contest are admitting today that the vote as published in Sunday's AMERICAN gave some of them a big surprise.

You've Got to Keep Working.

The Contest Editor gave warning that the new vote list would open the eyes of a good many candidates.

What do they think, for instance, of William B. Sommerville capturing the lead for the capital prize? Pretty good work, isn't it?

What do you suppose Candidate Sommerville is doing today—admiring the result of his pest subscription efforts? Not much! The Contest Editor is willing to lay a small wager of the Panama Canal against a pint of sawdust that Sommerville is hustling harder than ever.

The leadership in this contest is no permanent job. It is held only by right of votes. Today's leader may be tomorrow's "also ran." It means incessant, everlasting subscription-getting to stay "on the top."

Just paste this memo in your hat—with a new vote list next Sunday and, if possible, one each week until the contest ends, no candidate's position is secure for more than six days.

Read What Mr. Keyes Did.

The only way to play the game for the next six weeks is to make every day count like the limit in subscription votes and turn them in as fast as you get them, because even the Contest Editor does not know up to the minute each week the vote list will be compiled.

Charles H. Keyes of No. 37 Power street, Providence, is giving an example of what a hustler can do. In the first vote list he occupied seventeenth position in District 5, with a total of 44,595 votes. In last Sunday's vote list he climbed up to fourth position with a total of 622,920 votes, only three candidates intervening between himself and the first district prize. That shows what subscriptions can do for you.

ASSUMED NAME POINT IN TRIAL FOR BOND THEFT

John Duff, proprietor of antique stores in Boston and on the North Shore testified as the larceny trial of Frederic L. Carpenter in the Suffolk Superior Court today, that he had introduced Carpenter to New Hampshire people as "A. L. Carter."

Duff, under further questioning, said he introduced Carpenter this way because he understood Carpenter had trouble with Mrs. Carpenter.

Duff, the dealer in antiques, was the first witness called on the second day of the trial today.

Duff said he had been interested in the Pemberton Sales Company, and that Carpenter at one time worked for him as a salesman. They had been intimate friends. Witness had received from John W. Kingsley a check for $200, payable to A. H. Smith, which is claimed by the prosecution to be Carpenter.) He had also received a check under the name of A. Q. Johnson. He was shown notes, but could not identify them as in the handwriting of Carpenter.

New Yorkers Testify.

R. carlon Griffith, of the firm of Simpson, Pearce & Co., New York stock brokers and members of the New York Stock Exchange, detailed the transactions of Carpenter with his house in connection with some telephone bonds. His house received an order from the Sherman National Bank to sell the bonds, and in accordance with that order the bonds were sold on the stock exchange.

William H. Maclay, former vice-president of the Sherman National Bank of New York said he recognized Carpenter as James W. Johnson who opened an account in 1907. He said he was positive in his identification.

Charles G. Colyer of Glenway, N. J., former cashier of the Sherman National Bank in New York identified Carpenter as the James W. Johnson who had dealings with the bank in 1907. He could not know him very well, but well enough to say "How do you do?" when they met at the bank.

Two Hundred Babies to Be Given Away

CHILDLESS WOMEN ASK FOR CHILDREN OF POOR

Frank Gordon of Arlington is two years old. He is free to whoever wants him, and it is certain he will not lack a comfortable home.

Scores of letters have been received by the AMERICAN from parents who yearn for the love and kisses of a child.

The story in the Sunday AMERICAN which told how two hundred or more bits of humanity could be obtained for nothing struck a responsive chord in the hearts of scores of women. The letters from mothers who wished to give their infants away were pathetic. Each one told of a hidden tragedy in the home. And the letters from childless women who could adopt those babies also convey a message equally as sad.

They could adopt a baby and give it a mother's love. They accept the word of the mothers who confess that they are unable to care for their babies and volunteer to assume the full responsibilities of motherhood.

In a word, these women believe that human life has a higher market value than a Hanker cat, a cur dog or shrill voiced and profane parrot.

The pictures of the dozen sweet faced babies printed in Sunday's AMERICAN attracted these women. Baby Gordon appears to be the most popular. This is because he is older. Most of the women want him because he has arrived at that interesting age. The picture showed his rugged frame and sturdy head. It is the picture of a good-natured lovable boy, who will love or fight. Here is what one woman who would like to adopt Baby Gordon writes:

I saw your story in Sunday's AMERICAN which told about the babies wanting good homes. I have been married four years and have no children of my own, so I would like to adopt one. I would treat him as I would my own. I like children dearly and trust that I may hear from you. Can I have Baby Gordon?

The AMERICAN received of those little ones through the work of a philanthropic woman. She sought a baby for adoption and inserted an advertisement in the AMERICAN, realizing that it was the best advertising medium in the city. She was swamped with letters from mothers who would give their children away for adoption.

In nearly every case the baby was being boarded in some family while the mother struggled for an existence. All admitted that it was a tremendous sacrifice to part with their babies, but admitting that they were doing so with the belief that it was the best course.

It was learned that there are today in Greater Boston more than two hundred babies to be given away.

Several women called at the AMERICAN office and requested the names of the mothers who are willing to give away the children. One sturdy-faced woman of thirty said that she had been married five years and had not been blessed with a child.

"I would like that Christmas baby, and my second choice is Baby Gordon. I never believed that one could secure such a sweet child until I read the story in the Sunday AMERICAN," she said. This woman was given the address of the mothers who have the children.

Another young woman, accompanied by her husband, called at the office seeking the address of Baby X.

"I have been married a year," she began, "if I could just have one of those little dears I would be the happiest woman in the world. Just think of those little kiddies! Every one of them is so sweet. Of course I would love a child. Who would fail to love one of those children?"

A letter from Providence reads:

Kiddly give me all particulars about Baby Gordon, whose pictured appeared in the Sunday AMERICAN. Will the mother give full surrender? Also state nationality and any other facts about him.

(Signed) A WOMAN WHO LOVES HIM.

Harvey Wiley, Jr., to Lead Men in Big Suffragist Parade

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Harvey W. Wiley, Jr., the pure food baby, whose parents first met at a suffrage rally, will return thanks to the suffragist cause for this auspicious meeting by leading the Men's League division in the great suffrage parade March 3.

Baby Wiley, who is six months old and has six teeth, will not march in the parade, but he will appear in his baby chariot at the head of the line of masculine believers.

Father Wiley is an ardent believer in woman's suffrage, but his lecture engagements will not permit him to march.

Mrs. Wiley insists that "Baby Wiley" is a firm believer, likewise, in woman's suffrage.

6 MORE NASHUA MEN SURRENDER IN VICE CRUSADE

MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 14.—Six more of the indicted men in the Nashua crusade against vice rushed to this city and into court to plead to the charges against them and accept the decree of the court. This is the second half dozen who have decided not to fight the indictments. The others appeared in court yesterday.

The men who came before Judge Chamberlin today in the Superior Court were charged with gambling. They were George Poitra, Samuel Davis, Alonzo D. Berry, George Gazette, Albert T. Tobias and Daniel Mullen.

Each Prisoner Fined.

Poitras was fined $50 and $26 costs. Davis was fined $50 and $25 costs. Berry was fined $50 and $25 costs and sentence was suspended on two other counts. Gazette was fined $50 and costs of $25. Tobias, who is a restaurant keeper, was fined $50 and $25 costs.

David Mulien, indicted for keeping a gambling place, has been in the South for some time, and it was said it was doubtful whether the authorities would make a search for him.

Frank H. Wingate, chairman of the police town committee, charged with accepting bribes and selling liquor illegally in his drug store, and F. Homer Wingate, charged with gambling, will fight their cases.

Gets Threatening Letters.

Much excitement was caused in Nashua today when it became known that W. A. Sullivan, the detective who has gathered the bulk of evidence against Nashua officials, and received letters threatening him with death.

Commissioner Gregg is planning to ask the Legislature, now in session at Concord, to appoint a committee to probe deeper into the Nashua vice candal.

GRAHAM TO SUCCEED LORD STRATHCONA

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The evening News printed the announcement today that Sir Hugh Graham, owner of the Montreal, Que., Star, will probably soon succeed Lord Strathcona as high commissioner for Canada. The change is contemplated, it is said because of the advanced age of Lord Strathcona, who is nearly ninety-three years old. Lord Strathcona was appointed Canadian High commissioner in 1896.

FIRST PENSION FOR MOTHER ORDERED

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14.—For the first time in the history of this city, Judge Kinsey made an order for a "mothers' pension," in disposing of a case of children, whose only offense was "poverty." The order of the court directed the County Commissioners to pay the mother $1.87 a week for each of three children, and with the exception of a fund for her maintenance the experiment under a recent act of the assembly will be watched with interest.

35-CENT COFFEE TOO MUCH FOR GOV. DUNNE

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—Governor-elect Edward F. Dunne registered his protest against high prices by putting on his hat and coat and leaving a fashionable hotel here when, after sitting down at the table his eyes fell upon the item "Coffee 35 cents per cup. "Where are you going?" his companion asked. Going where I can get a cup of coffee for ten cents," replied the Governor.

HOW "GEORGIA BAKED HAM" IS PREPARED BY MRS. WILSON HERSELF

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.— "Georgia baked ham" is a standard Southern dish. Here is how Mrs. Woodrow Wilson prepares the dish for her husband, the President-elect, the recipe being taken from her private cook book:

Select a small ham. Wash thoroughly in cold water and cover with a layer of baking soda, which scrub into the ham with a brush. Then rinse off and trim neatly and place in a bake pan. Mix the seasoning, consisting of half a teaspoonful each of cloves, cinnamon, celery seed and pepper. Put the whole into the surface of the ham and then cover with a very thick layer of onion, minced fine.

Cover the whole with a layer of pastry made by mixing smoothly a cup of sifted flour in a cup of water. This pastry is rolled out thin and then wound about the ham closely. The bake pan is then filled with boiled cider and placed in the oven to bake slowly and steadily for four hours, with frequent bastings from the elder.

Serve with candied sweet potatoes, baked squash and spinach done in butter with a relish of apple sauce.

Father Renews Fight on Hayden Gift to Woman

The second fight by the Hayden family for the $35,000 fortune that Joel Hayden, Jr., once a Boston banker, left to Mrs. Georgia McCabe, a Boston corset fitter, with whom Hayden was infatuated, has been begun by Hayden, Sr., in the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

The father, a retired mill man of Providence, R. I., seeks to have his son's will set aside. He alleges undue influence was used by Mrs. McCabe. The $35,000 is all that is left of a squandered fortune. It consist of a hotel known as the Erwin House and a lodging house, both located in Nashville, Tenn.

JAIL JOHNSON; STOPPED ON HIS WAY TO CANADA

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Jan. 14.—Jack Johnson, negro pugilist, indicted for violation of the Mann act, is in jail here. He was taken off a Grand Trunk train, alleged to have been bound for Canada, at 2:40 o'clock today. His second wife, formerly Lucille Cameron, was with him. She also is in jail.

Johnson was under $30,000 bond in the United States District court in Chicago. The terms of his bond provided that he should not leave the jurisdiction of the court. He is being detained here on advice from a special investigator of the Department of Justice in Chicago, who, in a telegram, said he feared Johnson was on his way to Canada to escape prosecution for violation of the White Slave law.

Johnson explained after his arrest he was on his way to Toronto to see his old manager, Tom Flanagan, regarding an offer he had received from Tom O'Rourke to put on a fight in Paris between Johnson and Al Palzer.

"I couldn't afford to let my mother's house go, besides the bond that I have up," Johnson explained, as he denied that he had any intention of running away from the prosecution. "I could not afford to turn down any fight offer I have either."

He exhibited a telegram in which an offer of $25,000 for a fight in Paris was made. The telegram was dated Los Angeles and said that the offer had been made by M. Leippe, representing Mr. Vincent of Paris. The message was signed by Tom O'Rourke.

Johnson telephoned to Chicago, and obtained permission to go to the house of Detective Patterson. Mrs. Johnson accompanied the pugilist.

RUSH HOME RULE BILL TO NEW STAGE

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The Irish home rule bill passed the report stage in the House of Commons by help of the "guillotine" at midnight. The third reading was fixed for Wednesday. This is a two days period, and in accordance with the allotted time the bill should be ready to go to the House of Lords on Thursday night. The debate in the House was mainly occupied with a discussion of the possible appendages between enacting the law and it becoming into operation. It has been made impossible for a meeting of the Irish Parliament to be postponed more than a year after the bill's passing.

BOSTON GIRLS' DRESS MORAL, SAY PASTORS

Some of the women's styles, to be sure, seem to be a little rapid, but there is no intentional immodesty. The styles are not bad, though to a man they may seem peculiar, and the fashionably dressed women are very few.

This is the reply of the Rev. Dr. Herbert Johnson of Warren Avenue Baptist church to the charge made at Springfield Y. W. C. A. by Dr. Winfield Scott Hall of Chicago that Boston is in many the most suggestive city in the United States, and that its girls are the daring sirens of Paris. Dr. Johnson calls Dr. Hall's charges "unfair and ridiculous," while Rev. Dr. Cortland Myers of Tremont Temple says the y are "nonsense," and declares:

Boston women are the best looking and the best dressed in the world.

Dr. Hall is quoted as saying:

"New York's evil is more of a boulevard character and lacks the objectionable features which teem in the capital of Massachusetts.

"New England has accepted some of the more objectionable customs of Europe, and women's dress is the most evident of all. Girls in their daily work, as well as women on the ballroom floor, have sacrificed their consciences and modesty to adopt the daring in dress."

Dr. Meyers says:

"I know Boston very well and other cities to a less degree, and I never saw any contrast between women's dresses in Boston and elsewhere. I consider Boston women the best looking in the world and the best dressed.

Dr. Johnson defines Boston girls as follows:

Recently I have been much in New York and Brooklyn, and there is no comparison between our Boston styles and the dresses worn there. In the painting of girls' faces and the wearing of tawdry and immodest clothes, it is there that one finds the exaggeration and the aping of Paris over here.

I have only praise for the working girls. They have convinced me that the quality of our women is not deteriorating at all. They have taste, refinement and character, and they show it in their dressing. There is no finer class of girls anywhere in the world.

GIRLS SAY LIVING ON $8 A WEEK CALLS FOR SCORE OF ECONOMIES

Letters continue to pour into the AMERICAN office concerning the problem of a young woman living on less than $8 a week.

The discussion of this important topic, vital to every working girl, has aroused great interest. Young women discuss the problem from different angles. Some of them insist that it can be done by exercising careful economy. Others say that life on less than $8 a week, or even on that amount, is merely a life of misery.

It's Only Existing.

Editor AMERICAN:

Noticing your request for an intelligent opinion regarding the question as to whether a woman can live on less than $8.00 a week, I wish to write, because I have tried it and know "whereof I speak." Incidentally, I wish to say that I tried it as an experiment. I wanted to see how it could be done. It means a "tight squeeze." As some one has said, it is not, much like living, it is only "existing." Still it can be done and she can get street and feel well on it. I have proved that part, too.

Now as to items:

	Per Week.
Board	($7.00)
1 loaf bread per day, at 5 cents	.35
1 pint milk per day, at 5 cents	.35
1 pound butter	.30
1 dozen eggs	.30
Other foodstuffs	.50
1 hot meal, at restaurant, at 25 cents	.25
Laundry	.90
Carfares	1.00
Clothes, etc.
	$7.75

EXPERIENCE.

This Girl Gets Along.

Editor AMERICAN:

I get along on $8.00. I am living with friends, who charge me $4.00 a week for a comfortable room and board (two meals a day). I buy a light lunch at noon, at an average of $1 for the week. My carfares come to sixty cents. I allow $1.50 for my clothes, and by making my own shirt waists and a few of the dresses I wear, I manage to get along fairly well. I launder my own clothes. I wear eye glasses and am having my teeth treated, which costs at least fifty cents a week between the two.

I don't find much time to go to theater, as I have to do my sewing evenings, but I do visit the "movies" once a week. I buy the Boston AMERICAN daily and Sunday, because I think it is educational. For my insurance and savings I manage to keep twenty-five cents a week. Respectfully yours,

H. A.

Boston.

Hard to Live on $8 a Week.

Editor AMERICAN:

A girl who gets $8 a week can live quite well. If she gives in her money at home, but if she pays her board she will find it hard to save enough to dress as she would like to. I know for I have tried it. Where is the girl who does not need some new duds, and some face powder, and a new collar, and last but not least, get a new magazine on Sunday reading, and some candy and even gum? There is the rules for church, and the little present to the friend in the shop about to be married, and how often one is called on for a little charity and for flowers for some one who died. All these little things reduce the little hoard materially.

One hardship is the long day that a girl has to work. Why a girl has to be in a shop at 7 o'clock, when big strong union men don't begin until 8 o'clock. I think it is very unfair. No wonder she doesn't feel like sewing or learning to cook or anything else—she is so tired.

R. A. F.

Worcester, Mass.

The Dental Bills.

A decaying tooth is an "incidental" that may cost frightfully. A working girl's teeth shouldn't decay.

How about laundry? How many pairs of stockings should a working girl wear a week? And who is the wise one who talks all the time about the working girl looking "neat but not gaudy?" Did you ever try gaudiness—just plain, common or garden nastiness—on nothing-at-all a week.

Oh, I forgot—Grace's clothing, too, which must come out of that remainder of $63.85. A working girl's clothing must be serviceable and inexpensive.

But, after working hours, I'm not a working girl. I'm just girl—GIRL—like that, a fun-loving, affectionate, rather lonesome girl, who wants to go out a little with the right sort of fellows and who wants to look as reasonably pretty as the Lord intended a girl should look. And believe me, Mr. Editor, that clothes do make a difference. Ask your wife, if you have one.

By the way, this being just after the merry Christmas season, how about the working girl's Christmas presents. Let her make them. When? In her idle evenings, of course. After a girl has plodded home and had supper (?) and has washed out a clean shirt waist for the next day and mended her stockings and tried to fix up a new hat out of an old frame and a yard of twenty-nine-cent velvet ribbon—after that is done—let her sit down and dash off a few natty Christmas gifts out of silk cuts worth of cheap lawn and a skein of Persiana. What's "Persiana?" Look it up. Of course you don't know what it is because all you know about a girl and a girl's belongings is what they handed you from Philadelphia.

Yours with simple faith,

MARY K. G.

Roxbury.

One Solution of Problem.

Editor AMERICAN:

In your daily paper I read an article which is very needful to be decided in this twentieth century. Before telling my opinion how a girl can live on $8 per week, I have an irresistible desire to express a few words about this question. Every unmarried young lady can live on $8 per week if nature has bequeathed her with good looks. But if a girl toils hard for her living, it is not so easy, for then she surely needs more, because good clothes is a great help to realizing her ideal. Earnin $8 per week a girl ought to live this way:

Breakfast	.15
Lunch	.15

WILL TELL FOOD SECRETS TO WIN HOTEL STRIKE

While Joseph J. Ettor, the I. W. W. leader, who was quoted as advising the striking waiters in New York to "starve the fool of the 'exploitastic guests,'" was in New Bedford today, the New York hotel strike centred about the recommendation of Elizabeth Gurley Flynn of the I. W. W. that the strikers close on pleasure," so-called, of the quality of food served to the guests.

Strikers' matters were called by Miss Flynn to the International Hotel Workers' Unions headquarters to make effidavits before notaries. She said:

I want you all to come and tell about the adulteration of food. I want you to tell how dishes, which are served by one guest because of their inferiority, are sent back to another guest; and how sauces are poured on bad food to make it taste like good food. I want you to make affidavit to it, so we may give our information to the board of health. We want Mr. Capitalist, when he sits down to his dainty dinner, to know that his dainty-ness rose out of a vile spot, like a lily out of a quagmoot.

Jail Jockey Fuller, Once Worth $250,000, for Theft of Cents

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Once ranked next to Ted Sloan, America's premier jockey, Grover Cleveland Fuller, who before he was twenty had won $25,000 in the saddle for himself and much more for his employers, today is in the Tombs, awaiting sentence for the theft of a pocketbook containing a few cents from an acquaintance in a saloon.

Penniless and friendless, the former jockey, who is only twenty-five, limped into court, and pleaded guilty. He will be sentenced Friday.

Asked by the judge what he had been doing lately, Fuller, whose yearly earnings of $50,000 were cut short when his horse threw him in 1905, injuring one leg, replied dejectedly: "Just drifting, judge! It's gone, every cent of it thrown by his fortune and those I believed my friends got most of it. In two years I spent $250,000. Now I'm down and out without even enough to hire counsel. None of my friends will help me. I'm all in."

Absolute hopelessness was in his tone.

Fuller in his best year made $75,000 for himself and $200,00 for James R. Keene, whose horses he rode.

PRINCESS GIVES UP 'RIGHTS' TO MARRY COUNT

BERLIN, Jan. 14.—The betrothal of the charming Princess Olga Elizabeth of Saxe-Altenburg to Count Charles Frederick von Puckler has just been announced.

"Marrying and giving in marriage" in the royal and semi-royal families of Europe seems to be almost confined at the moment to left-handed or morganatic marriages.

There is an epidemic of such marriages nowadays, particularly in the Austrian courts and the lesser German courts.

An Archduchess or a Princess, dropping down, lowers herself at the feet of the head of her house and sobs out:

"Your Highness, let me marry Count So-and-So, or my life, my happiness, will be ruined."

"Take her and be happy," returns the head of the house rather bored. "But first, you know, you must renounce all your rights as one of us."

So take does. So must Princess Olga Elizabeth before she marries her Count, for the house of Saxe-Altenburg is proud and ancient, closely akin to that of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, of which Leopold, a Prince of Great Britain and Ireland, is the reigning Duke.

Cinderella and 7 Gnomes Now in the Noted Busch Garden

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 14.—At a cost of nearly $10,000, Adolphus Busch has installed in the noted sunken gardens of his home at Pasadena figures representing the stories of Cinderella, the Seven Gnomes of the Magic Hut and the Legend of St. Hubertus. Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs and the Witch Gingerbread house with Hansel and Gretel and the Cruel Witch, pictured in miniature details, also are in the garden.

"Grandpa believes in fairies," volunteered Miss Audrey Faust, the brewer's ten-year-old granddaughter, "at least he believes children should be told fairy tales.

Adolphus Busch is a great lover of children, and of the institutions of childhood, and has therefore peopled the forest surrounding the castle on the Hilltop with characters from folk lore. The figures in the Pasadena estate are replicas of those in Busch Garden.

MARION SPRAGUE DANCE DEBUTANTE

Two hundred couples thronged the ballroom of the Edward L. Bradlee mansion on Faulkner Farm, Brookline, at the second debutante dance in honor of Miss Marion Sprague. Miss Sprague made her debut last November.

CONVICT SAYS OLD BODY HAS VANISHED

CLEVELAND, Jan. 14.—Joseph Kirwin, sentenced here in 1903 to life imprisonment in Leavenworth, Kan., prison for robbery on the Great Lakes, has appealed for pardon, on the ground that a complete change of tissues of the body which scientists say occurs every seven years has cured him of the crime mania which caused him to commit the offence of which he was found guilty. Kirwin was acquitted of murdering a young woman found dead here.

EUROPE LEADS IN FIGHTING CONSUMPTION

Great Foreign Remedy Now Being Used in New York.

After a spell of mental distress or suffering, after long, sleepless nights, when the nerves have been put to their severest test and is sure to prove most valuable in the treating of the disease from its first attack.

Results, though very powerful in attacking the tubercle bacilli, contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. It seems to agree with the most delicate stomach, and is pleasant to take. It should be used in connection with outdoor exercise, if possible most, thus making it a great body builder.

Additional information about Sanatogen can be obtained in this country by addressing the Sanatogen Co., 78 West Broadway, New York City. Ritter-Jones Drug Stores and all leading druggists are distributing Sanatogen with considerable enthusiasm.

NATIONAL OATS

—you can taste the difference

One dishful is an inspiration to better working, better thinking, better drawing. The most delicious and wholesome rolled oats you ever tasted.

Rules Governing the Contest:

(1) Contest for school children under 16 years—drawing must be signed by teacher, the latter making note of pupil's age, grade and name of school. All sketches from children which do not conform to this will be entered in Free-for-all list.

(2) Write your name and address plainly, street number, town and state on back of each sketch submitted.

(3) Positively no tracings or transfers will be admitted—drawings must be FREE HAND and in actual colors. Any deviation from this rule will bar contestant.

(4) All prize-winning drawings become our sole property for future use, if we so desire, on payment of prize money.

(5) Contestants desiring return of drawings must enclose return postage.

(6) A committee of three men of national reputation will act as judges in this contest. They are Hamilton King, celebrated artist; Geo. W. Coleman, president of Associated Ad Clubs of America, and Thomas Balmer, advertising director Woman's World, Chicago.

Get Started Now! You may win one of the big prizes—it costs nothing to try—it's lots of fun. The first prize winner's name and picture in each class will be published in big, national magazines.

Send all drawings and address all communications to "Sketch the Girl" Contest Department

POLICE BATTLE WITH YOUTHS ENDS IN COURT

Carl O. Rouse, John L. Sullivan and John C. McCarthy of Wakefield, and Frank W. Walsh of Malden, all between eighteen and twenty years old, were arraigned in the Saugus Court today, charged with breaking and entering camps at Young's Pond.

Lynnfield citizens and police armed with clubs and axes, ran down the four youths and forced them to surrender, after a spectacular chase. Several days of watching by owners of the rifled camps, and the holding up of one of the camp owners, brought about the arrests last Friday.

George H. Pelree of No. 68 Florence street, Everett, started for his camp last Friday afternoon. On his way through the woods he met two young men laden with plunder. Pelree recognized a pair of his shoes.

He challenged the men, in spite of the fact that they both carried guns. One of them, he says, told him to "shut up or we will blow you full of holes."

He had no choice but to throw up his hands and let the men pass. He made his way to the camp and found that his own and several other buildings had been broken into.

A CHILD'S WASTE CLOGGED BOWELS

Makes It Cross, Peevish, Restless and Feverish—If Tongue Is Coated, Give "Syrup of Figs.

Children dearly love to take delicious "Syrup of Figs," and nothing else cleans and regulates their tender little stomachs, livers and 30 feet of bowels so promptly and thoroughly.

Children get bilious and constipated just like grown-ups. Then they get sick, the tongue is coated, stomach sour, breath bad; they don't eat or rest well; their become feverish, cross, irritable and don't want to play. Listen, Mothers—for your child's sake don't force the little one to swallow nauseating castor oil, violent calomel or harsh irritants like Cathartic pills. A teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs will have your child smiling and happy again in just a few hours. Syrup of Figs will gently clean, sweeten and regulate the stomach, make the liver active and move on and out of the bowels all the constipated matter, the sour bile, the foul, clogged-up waste and poisons, without causing cramps or griping.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging or injuring your children. Being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics, it cannot be harmful. Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

Poor Man Sufferer From Adulterated Foods, Says Wiley

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—"The poor man is the main sufferer from adulterated foods, both in health and in pocketbook."

This is quoted today as an epitome of the lecture delivered at the Central Y. M. C. A. by Dr. Harvey C. Wiley, the pure-food champion, on "Pure Food as Affecting Human Welfare." Dr. Wiley said:

Eating is the principal industry of every community in the world. There is no child labor law affecting it. The average man and woman spend five years of their lives eating and twenty years more in preparing their food for the five-hour meal.

There is only one class of people in the world that can afford to buy adulterated foods, and that is the rich. The adulterator defrauds the poor man who can't afford it, because it cheats him every time. So that pure food stands nearer to human happiness and welfare than any other factor in life.

The trouble in this country about the high cost of living is that the people are defrauded in what they buy. If the laboring man could understand the absolute principles of nutrition so that he could purchase scientifically he would double his purchasing capacity without adding a cent to his wages.

Every step in the past twenty-five years has been to increase the price of food without increasing its nutritious value. We are defrauded all along the line.

The people in this country pay fifteen cents of every dollar for short weight and measure. There are two reasons for this, and one of them is the package. Why spend enormous sums for decorations on the packages, which people can't eat?

MORGAN PRAISED BY A CATHOLIC PRIEST

WINSTED, Ct., Jan. 14.—"He who has made his talent the most fruitful upon earth is J. Pierpont Morgan."

The Rev. Paul F. McAleney, pastor of St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church in Hartford, made the statement in a sermon.

Continuing, he said: "Mr. Morgan has made use of the gifts from God, achieving a deserved success, and has been charitable to his fellowmen in every respect."

NEW STORAGE LABEL LAWS SUGGESTED

Harry P. Cassidy, the AMERICAN'S food expert, has received from the Park Co-operative Society of Jamaica Plain a letter with interesting suggestions for changes in the food laws. This society operates a store in Jamaica Plain, which was used as an egg station by the Housekeepers' League. The letter reads:

Jamaica Plain, Jan. 10, 1913.

Mr. H. P. Cassidy,
Care AMERICAN, Boston.

Dear Sir—We have been greatly interested in your work on the egg situation, and believe that you are entitled to great credit for your success in reducing the price of this great article of food, so necessary for the workingman. We take quite a little pride that in our humble way we were able to assist you and the Housekeepers' League by offering our store for a distributing station.

This crime of food speculation hits the poor hardest, and your egg crusade was most appreciated amongst them. Now there are a few laws that we would like to see on the statute books of the State, and, in fact, of the United States. They are as follows:

Storage goods should not be sold except in boxes or wrapping marked in large letters "COLD STORAGE GOODS." This will prevent traders from selling storage goods for fresh, as they now do right along.

That all canned foods be plainly marked with the year in which they are packed, and the net weight of contents in pounds.

That all cereal foods when put up in packages be marked in large letters with the net weight of contents, and be put up only in 1, 2, 5 pound, etc., packages. These cereal manufacturers are robbing the poor people through short weight packages. Watching you every success, yours very truly,

PARK CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY.
J. M. DUNBAR, President.

DRY GOODS MEN TO DINE TONIGHT

The annual banquet and indies' night of the New England Dry Goods Association, to be held at Copley-Plaza Hotel, this evening, promises to be notable. The speakers will include Professor Daniel Grosvenor of Harvard and Andover, Frederick F. Murphy, treasurer of the Mark Cross Company of New York, and Robert A. Dinkerly, secretary of the City Club of New York.

SARAH EGAN OF ROXBURY VICTIM OF THE 'SNIPPER'

Ends of hair show where "snipper" plied his shears, carrying off three inches of the braid.

"Bad Man of New Marlboro" Tries to Break Into Jail

PITTSFIELD, Jan. 14.—Pittsfield police station today houses a curiosity, a man who, instead of trying to break out of jail, tried to break into it. He is Robert Bailey, the "bad man of New Marlboro," who was pardoned a few weeks ago from the House of Correction, where he was serving three years for robbery.

Coldly received by the outside world after his pardon, Bailey began to yearn for his warm cell and finally went to the rear of the House of Correction, where he tried to enter one of the grated kitchen doors. He was detected by a guard, who telephoned to police headquarters.

Policemen went to the jail and Bailey ran, but was halted at a wire fence with a bad cut on the face from the barbs. He had all of his belongings in a box when arrested.

POLICE HUNTING IN ROXBURY FOR NEW "SNIPPER"

While eleven-year-old Sarah Egan of Roxbury was mournfully showing her schoolmates today how three inches had been cut from her braid, the police were seeking the fabled "Jack, the Snipper."

This new "Snipper," according to Sarah's description, is about thirty-five years old, 5 feet and 7 inches tall, weighs about 160 pounds, and, when she saw him running away with the end of her braid, wore a dark suit.

The mothers in Roxbury section continued their little girls today to be particularly careful not to loiter going to and from school and to watch out for the first sign of a "snipper" and his shears.

Sarah Egan is the daughter of Mrs. Sarah E. Egan of No. 373 Huggins street, Roxbury.

She was turning from Tremont into Cabot street when she noticed a man walking behind her. A moment later there was a slight tug at her hair. She turned in time to see a flash of shears and to meet the "snip" of closing shears. She screamed and the man ran. Three inches of Sarah's pretty braid was gone. The girl ran home and told her mother.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY TECH FRESHMEN

Walter Y. Reed of South Weymouth has been chosen by the executive committee of the freshman class at Tech to fill the position of class secretary left vacant by Bertram G. Adams of Brookline. Paul H. Buxton of Dorchester was re-elected manager of the class football team. Donald B. Webster of Malden was chosen manager of the track team, and Charles H. Woolley of East Boston will manage the class baseball team.

MARIE DRESSLER TO HEAD OWN COMPANY

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Marie Dressler is going to become an actress-manager. She is organizing her own company, and next month, if all goes as she expects, will start for the Pacific Coast. It will be practically an all-star vaudeville company. "I intend to organize my company by having the best singer obtainable, the best dancer, and so forth," said Miss Dressler, "I will, of course, appear myself. Each act will be individual, and we shall carry our own orchestra."

I. FINBAR COURT TO INSTALL OFFICERS

I. Finbar Court, M. C. O. F., of East Cambridge, will hold a public installation at Institute Hall, East Cambridge, Wednesday evening. District Deputy Stephen Kirwin of Everett will be assisted by Morse Court degree staff of Haverhill. The officers to be installed are: John F. Higgins, chief ranger; Jeannette F. Shiith, vice-chief ranger; B. J. Brogan, recording secretary; T. J. Hurley, financial secretary; Thomas Ryan, treasurer; Joseph B. Mooney, senior conductor; Mary McNiff, junior conductor; Richard Skinnir, inside sentinel; Thomas Lynch, outside sentinel.

GIRLS HIDE RINGS AS BURGLAR ENTERS

Dispatches just received in Boston tell of a thrilling experience undergone by the Misses Vivian and Gertrude Caunt, daughters of Joseph Caunt, wealthy shoe manufacturer of Boston, at their estate in Pasadena, Cal.

While they feigned sleep, each believing the other to be actually asleep, they slipped the rings from off their fingers and hid them under the coverlets as a burglar ransacked their room and stole jewelry valued at $300. The burglar escaped.

MATRIMONIAL BOARD URGED BY MISS SMITH

By SYBIL WARNE.

Miss Charlotte Smith of the Women's Homestead Association favors a State Matrimonial Bureau at which engagements shall be legally registered for a small fee. This book, she says, should be open to the public. It would do away with breach of promise suits, she points out, and would serve to frustrate the matrimonial desires of "old fogies" who have their eyes on young girls.

This matrimonial bureau would keep an account of the couples married and other details about their married life.

Miss Smith, who has had a large experience in handling matrimonial difficulties, believes that the matrimonial bureau could be made one of the most serviceable in the State and be the means in adjusting many cases out of court.

Put Them on Record.

"Well, I'm glad to see some one waking up about these engagements. All young men think of it that they can get engaged to a woman and then break it off at their pleasure. It's a downright shame and something should be done to stop it," urged Miss Charlotte Smith.

"But I would go further than what Representative Winfield E. Prime is agitating. He does not go far enough. Just as soon as people become engaged they should sign a contract to that effect and then they should have that contract registered at the State Matrimonial Bureau.

"The parties engaged should go there in person and for a nominal fee register their marriage engagement. But before they are allowed to marry they should also undergo a physical examination. Half the men would not pass such an examination. You know that men and women are opposing physical examination today and doing all they can to prevent legislation about it.

"Why, I am trying to get a bill through the Legislature to get bachelors taxed. You should see them lurking around the State House and ogling me.

"But this making an engagement a contract and having it properly registered would have the tendency to make men more considerate of the feelings of women. All that some men think of doing is to win the affections of a woman, tell her how sweet she is and that they would die for her, and all that sort of thing, and then before you know it they are making love to another woman and trying to get rid of their former love.

Men Are So Fickle.

"Men are so fickle in their love, you know. But what makes me mad is to see these old fellows making love to the young girls. The engagement contract properly filed would in many instances put a stop to this.

"There is nothing so necessary as to advise these old men who think that they want young women for wives, when they really want some one to nurse them.

"In this matrimonial bureau, I would have lectures given by experienced persons upon marriage, and upon these topics: Who should marry?

What are the obligations of engagements?

When should old men fall in love with? Of course there are other important topics.

Why, these old men get so silly over a young girl and then want to marry her.

I'd put a stop to the marrying of old men marrying a girl of twenty, when he is over sixty. Such marriages are sickening. The young women are to blame in engagements, and so this type of couple could not get married.

"Why, there are so many old ladies right here in Boston, who have some money, and their child-like ways of young women is to admire them.

"Yes, something must be done to put a stop to men trifling with women's affections. Register all engagements and have the books recording them open to the public.

MISS WILSON MADE COLLEGE FRESHMAN

BALTIMORE, Jan. 14.—President-elect Wilson's daughter, Jessie Woodrow, has been elected an honorary member of the Goucher College freshman class. Miss Wilson's letter accepting the honor has been read at the freshman class meeting by its president, Miss Nell Lewis of Raleigh, N. C.

"Professor Taft" to Have Tub Ordinary Man Could Swim in

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 14.—The entire sixth floor front of the Hotel Taft has been set apart as the apartment which President Taft will occupy when he comes here to take up his residence. There are nine rooms in all, six sleeping rooms, library, dining and reception room. As "Professor Taft of Yale" the President will have his headquarters on the hotel corner next to the Quinnipiack Club.

His study will be directly connected with the largest bathroom in the hotel and a special bathtub will be built for "Professor Taft." Considerable doubt has been felt of the adequacy of the present tub to meet the physical requirements of the President.

Orders have been given for the tub which will be large enough for the ordinary-sized man to enjoy a swim in.

The dimensions are six feet long, three feet wide and four deep.

FRENCH WOMEN DEMAND PLACES IN GOVERNMENT

PARIS, Jan. 14.—Mlle. Marie Deniard, who is a candidate for the Presidency of the Republic, has had cards printed which make the following appeal to the women of France:

"Widows, spinsters and divorcees over age ought to have the ballot and be eligible for election to all assemblies of the Republic on the same conditions as men, and to occupy seventy seats in Parliament by reason of the 4,000,000 votes to which they are entitled and the $126,000,000 which they pay in taxes.

"Married women ought to be electors and eligible for election to all assemblies of the Republic in place and instead of husbands, who are unwilling or unable to exercise the suffrage."

Phillips Brooks Statue Hodge Podge Says Frank Chase

The much-discussed Copley square statue of Phillips Brooks was criticised as an artistic hodge-podge by Frank E. Chase, in a discussion of the "decline that has taken place in the Boylston street of days agone."

Mr. Chase, custodian of the fine arts department of the Boston Public Library, says that today Boylston street is one long outrage against the city. The day of dignified homes and swrtay architecture for Boylston street has given way to ignoble treatment for purely commercial ends, according to Mr. Chase's description and when he comes to the Phillips Brooks statue he augred that not the late illustrious sculptor St. Gaudens, but some other person was responsible for "the artistic hodge-podge."

WELLESLEY GIRLS 'UNION' FUND $31,832

Miss Mary E. Holmes, chairman of the Finance Committee, states that the fund which Wellesley College students and graduates are raising for a students' building on the campus now has now reached $31,832. Tentative plans call for a modern building to cost from $100,000 to $150,000.

ALLIES READY TO END PEACE TALK AND FIGHT AGAIN

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The decision definitely to break up the peace conference in London simultaneously with the presentation to the Turkish government of the note of the European Powers was reached today by the chiefs of the peace delegation of the Balkan allies.

The resolution of the representatives of Bulgaria, Greece, Montenegro and Servia will be communicated to the Porte in a formal note.

At the same time it was decided to instruct the commanders of the armed forces of the allies in the field to terminate the armistice, which has been in operation since December 3.

Since that date hostilities between Bulgaria and Servia on one side and Turkey on the other have entirely ceased. Greece, who will also sign the armistice protocol, however, has continued fighting against Turkey, both on sea and land, with varying success.

FEEL BULLY! HEAD CLEAR, STOMACH SWEET, BOWELS RIGHT—"CASCARETS"

You men and women who can't get feeling right—who have headache, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach and are all worn out.

Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets—or merely dosing yourself every few days with salts, cathartic pills, castor oil and other harsh irritants?

Cascarets immediately cleanse and sweeten the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box will keep your head clear, stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular and make you feel cheerful and bully for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

Wednesday—Blue Ribbon Day at Gilchrist's

"What is Blue Ribbon Day?" asks the stranger in our midst—stranger, we say, for nearly all New England already knows. Briefly, Blue Ribbon Day is a day when we literally and figuratively "raise the flag," and "strike up the band" for a rousing day's business—a day when we throw restrictions to the winds and disregard profits—to present—

Thousands of Wonderful Economies Throughout the Gilchrist Store

A day to make thousands of new friends for Gilchrist's, and to renew the ties of old friends. A One-Day, Once-a-Month Sale, when thrifty New England people buy, and buy enthusiastically, great quantities of Ready-to-Wear Garments for Men, Women and Children, as well as nearly everything for the home—the day when we award the prizes, or Blue Ribbons, in the form of

Desirable Dependable Merchandise at the LOWEST PRICES of the Entire Month

This must be so, for THIS IS THE LAW OF BLUE RIBBON DAY, rigidly enforced—
Blue Ribbon Day Offerings must be lower in prices than the same, or equally desirable goods can be obtained in any other department store in Boston.

WE COUNSEL EARLY SHOPPING, as Blue Ribbon Days are not long enough at best, and each salesperson expects to serve nearly three times the usual number of customers.

WEDNESDAY JAN. 15 — BLUE RIBBON DAY — WEDNESDAY JAN. 15

ATTRACTIONS AT PLAYHOUSES

"THE GARDEN OF ALLAH" GREAT AS SPECTACLE

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

The drama of the Great Desert that came to us at the Boston Theatre last night in "The Garden of Allah" was chiefly for the eye that hungers for spectacular effects. In that respect the play was easily the biggest thing of the year—the biggest thing since "Ben Hur."

This romantic story of the Sahara that was turned into a play from Robert Hichens' novel was a superb triumph for the electrician and master of properties. The spirit of the desert, which spread itself at the first proceedings, was left to the men of mechanics, and so well did they perform their task that at times the actors who told the story were almost lost to the audience. "The Garden of Allah," as presented at the Boston last evening, was, first of all, a scenic treat; after that, if you look at it and wait for anything else, you turned them upon the people in Mr. Hichens' story.

After its extraordinary season in New York it seems hardly necessary to repeat what has been written in many typewriters, that "The Garden of Allah" is well worth everybody's attention. There appears to be a kind of universal understanding on that point. Indeed, the only thing that may easily be found in the various dramatic and theatric elements that make it pleasant to almost any taste.

Much That Is Unusual.

Its bigness as a production, the almost overwhelming realism of its terrible sand storm, and its brilliant scenic colorings should be enough alone to satisfy any audience. Its strangely absorbing—almost weird—interest with its renegade monk surrendering himself to the passions of the world tells a story that is quite as inviting in dramatic form as it was to the many thousands who read Mr. Hichens' novel.

There was so much that was unusual in "The Garden of Allah"—so much that offered good reason for serious thought—that its success here will doubtless be a duplication of what has been recorded in other cities. To those who cling faithfully to the teachings of the church "The Garden of Allah" will prove a sweet entertainment, for it glorifies those teachings and carries them to final triumph. To the good woman the play will be a convincing sermon that the spirituality is supreme.

While its atmosphere was entirely mechanical and its success largely due to its mechanical perfection, "The Garden of Allah" will safely stand the test that determines between attractive and unattractive. Sometimes the action was strained and the players faltered, not in their lines, but in their characterization, but they were always splendidly supported by the scenic tricks of the man at the switchboard.

Charles A. Stevenson stood boldly in the foreground as the genius controlling of the players. His characterization of Count Anteoni was wholesome and sympathetic, and he, more than any of his associates, seemed to realize the demands of his role.

Guarantee of Popularity.

Lawson Butt was almost terrifying as the monk who deserted his sacred post to see the world. His acting was at times strained. Dorothy Donnelly played Domini Enfelden with a tragic note—even before the tragedy arrived. Jose Ruben gave an intelligent touch to the servant, Batouch, and Frank Kingdon, as Father Benoit, gave as ecclesiastical as anyone could wish.

Making every allowance for the irregular conditions of a first performance, Mr. Stevenson easily led his companions in ease, intelligence and conviction. He gave the performance its best moments.

The striking beauty of "The Garden of Allah" as a spectacular production, with its astonishing mechanical perfection, gives it a guarantee of popularity.

"The Greyhound" Bill at the St. James.

Four nose were beaten several times last evening at the St. James Theatre during the performance of "The Greyhound," Paul Armstrong and Wilson Mizner's New York success. As for the Greyhound, ably depicted by Theodore Friebus, he runs his course in due form and then jumps overboard.

"The Greyhound" is a play of climaxes. It thrills, and then thrills some more. The St. James Theatre Company players have never appeared to better advantage than last evening. Miss Ethel Grey Terry starred as Claire, the Greyhound's wife; William J. Florence was highly satisfactory as McSherry, agent of Lo Eye, while Miss Beth Franklyn as Deep Sea Kitty, William C. Walsh as the Pale Face Kid, Dudley Hawley as Whispering Alex and Miss Beatrice Loring as Mrs. Foster Allen left little to be desired.

Personally, the Greyhound is a clever character, and Mr. Friebus gave no stone unturned to get the audience in a mood to properly appreciate his sudden demise, which is extremely dramatic. Others whose acting deserve mention included Huber Pierce as Murray, a detective; Charles Abbe as a Lame Duck, banker's spoiled boy as Porter Allen, Raymond Greenleaf as Percival Allen, Bella Cairn as Bess Allen, Henry Grady as Bob Kirk and Kate Ryan as Mrs. Fagin. The minor parts are well taken.

Premier Theatre

A spectacular picture. Homer's Odyssey, was the feature film at the Premier Theatre yesterday, and it proved equal to all expectations. This film has already been exhibited at dollar prices, and was regarded as well worth the charge. Now, at the Premier, you may see this same wonderful picture story at the prevailing picture theatre prices, the last of Odysseus' adventures. Yesterday that it holds a firm grip on public interest, and that the schoolboy memories of the story are sufficient to draw attended attention to the film. There were a dozen other attractive features on the bill.

New Palace Theatre

A thrilling picture story was shown at the New Palace Theatre yesterday. It was called "The Dead Man's Child," and told a story of mystery, punctuated by many a good thrill. Photographically "The Dead Man's Child" was a marvel, and added to this, was its wonderfully absorbing story. If you prefer sensational pictures this will surely satisfy you.

Gaiety Theatre

Clark's "Runaway Girls," which, as you might imagine, is composed largely of sprightly young women who romp and gambol, came to the Gaiety Theatre yesterday. This is a burlesque show that contains all of the elements that make that type of entertainment popular, and in the two and a half hours that were given to musical festivities and rollicking humor yesterday there was but little left undone to make the audience contented. These "Runaway Girls" will remain through the week.

Grand Opera House

"The Follies of the Day" Company furnished the burlesque show at the Grand Opera House yesterday. It will finish the week.

Burton Holmes' Lectures

The Panama Canal—toward which the world's eyes are turned—is the subject of Burton Holmes' next Travelogue in this city. Last spring Mr. Holmes visited the canal zone, and he brought back motion and still-pictures galore, which will not only show the canal in its progressiveness, but will also give frequent and various glimpses of its growth from its very beginning at the hands of the French engineers. Mr. Holmes will give "Panama and the Seas Canals" at Tremont Temple Friday evening and Saturday afternoon.

Waldron's Casino

'MILESTONES' SEEN HERE FOR THE FIRST TIME

Boston for the first time last night enjoyed the exquisite treat of witnessing a performance of the notable comedy, "Milestones," by Arnold Bennett and Edward Knoblauch. The play caused a furore of delight in London. It has been received in this country with equal pleasure in other cities and Boston now adds her stamp of approval, as was shown by the enthusiasm of the large and discerning audience that crowded the Tremont Theatre.

It was pointed out in a felicitous discussion of the play in yesterday's AMERICAN, by Dr. C. H. Parkhurst, it is tremendously human—a presentation of things as Bennett finds them, rather than an idealization of life. That rare gift which he has shown in his books of picking up life as it is lived and placing it in words so that one can see it as he reads, is manifested in the play.

It is a love story of three generations. It begins back half a century ago in England. The second act shows the passage of twenty-five stones of a mile each and the third act brings the curtain down on today. The scenes all take place in the same room—but marked by the progress that differentiates the different times with several of the characters continuing through the whole play.

As will be seen, this lends itself to great opportunity for character portraiture and stage setting. Both from the standpoint of faultless acting and artistic stage pictures, the production, which is under the direction of Joseph Brooks, ranks with the finest that Boston has seen in many years. The characters portrayed are seven ages of man. Here are pictured three ages: The young man, the middle aged man and the old man of life. That rare gift which the new points of the same man on the same thing at the different ages, especially regarding the matter of love and marriage.

There is neither space to tell the absorbing story of the play nor to dwell upon the individuals of the cast. But those who have seen the performance are liable to express themselves, taking plays and acting big and large, as did the aged and tyrannical grandchild of the first act, who was a flerce innovator of the first—when he ended his tirade before the fall of the curtain: "We live to learn."

Novelties Abound in Bill at Keith's.

Keith's Theatre this week presents one of the most unique bills seen this season. One of the feature novelties is "A Night at the Movies," Hamlin McLaurin's spectacular comedy of life in a moving picture theatre. There are twelve characters and they are all seen on the screen, which becomes a film-drama entitled "For Love's Own Sweet Sake."

Boston people know Tim McMahon and Edith Chappelle. They have not appeared in Boston for years, but their act entitled, "How Hubby Missed the Train," is one of the best on the vaudeville stage.

Linden Beckwith, just an American beauty, delighted the audience with some songs. The four Cliffons from the Olympia, Paris, presented some wonderful feats of strength.

Weber and Ethel Dooley were billed "In a Little of Everything" it was no boast. This is their first appearance in Boston and they delighted the audience with dancing, singing and bicycle riding. Nobody will probably know just how Mueller, the wizard with the cards, changes the spots by just tapping them.

William Burr and Daphne Hope in "A Lady, A Lover and A Lamp," presented something new to Boston audiences. Their sketch was a pretty one and the light effects were most artistic. Bowman Brothers, "The Blue Grass Boys," were pleasing with a series of new songs and jokes. Another whirlwind pair were Rosa Croach and George Welch. The latest moving pictures complete the bill.

Loew's South End

A romantic Irish story was told at the South End Theatre yesterday in the picture play of "The Colleen Bawn," and the increased attendance at the theatre at all performances was ample proof that romance, especially good Irish romance, is not dead. "The Colleen Bawn" is one of the most pretentious of new motion picture plays. Every scene was taken in Ireland, and many of them on the exact spots illustrated in the story. There were a number of other interesting features on the bill, but "The Colleen Bawn" was by far the most interesting of the day's audiences.

"Night on a Houseboat" Headliner at National.

Jesse Lasky's musical comedy, "A Night on a Houseboat," which is the head line attraction at the National Theatre this week, was well received last evening. There is an attractive chorus of pretty girls and clever principals including Lilly Dean Hart and Wilfred Berrick. The act is a scorching farce. The opportunity for special scenic and light effects is not neglected, while there are also a number of tuneful musical numbers.

The Bison City Four, a popular comedy quartet, was another feature which was well received by a large audience.

Fred A. LeDuke appeared in a society sketch, "Alias Mr. Roseberry." This little comedy dealt with the stealing of a pearl necklace by a trio of men, one suspecting the other till a fine little story was unfolded. Lamb's Manikins also proved to be popular, while Cotter and Boulden entertained in their new act.

Frances and Wilson were recalled several times, as were Benoids and Ballinger.

Globe Theatre

The new policy of long shows at the Globe will undoubtedly find favor with local theatregoers. The bill yesterday was an excellent one, and the big audiences expressed their approval of the new departure. Heading the long list was the Hottomley Troupe of acrobats. Then followed the Monarch Comedy Four, with wholesome mirth and excellent harmony. Kelly and Galvin were what might be termed a "team" and Princess Sganzine was a clever little woman whose work on a wire was excellent. The Harmony Girls had a pretty singing novelty in which the scenic effects were nicely staged. May Mulligan, Grace and Gray, Georgina Ross and the Cullen brothers were enthusiastically received, as were the Rays, the Song Review and the excellent pictures, including the Pathe Weekly.

Orpheum Theatre

Elita Proctor Otis and company headed the new bill at the Orpheum Theatre yesterday. These players had a smart comedy called "Bunner's Bun." It was generously received. A dozen other features completed the program.

Plays That Remain

"The Woman" continues at the Park Theatre, where it is drawing capacity business.

"The Merry Countess" began the final week of its stay at the Shubert Theatre last evening.

"Hanky Panky" is now on its final week at the Majestic Theatre.

"Officer 666" entered upon their second week at the Colonial last evening.

John Drew and "The Perplexed Husband" will remain through the week at the Hollis.

Howard Athenaeum

Bowdoin Square Theatre

Hub Theatre

Marion and Pinday headed the new bill at the Hub Theatre yesterday. There were a half dozen other acts.

Scenic Temple

A new bill of vaudeville and motion pictures was presented at the Scenic Temple yesterday.

Next Week's Bills

"Believe Me, Xantippe," John Craig's Harvard prize play, will be given its first performance at the Castle Square Theatre next Monday.

Annis Russell and a notable cast will come to the Shubert next week in "Two English comedies, "She Stoops to Conquer" and "The Rivals."

"Hunky Fulls the Strings" will move into the Majestic Theatre next Monday. The original company is promised.

Mrs. Fiske in "The High Road" will be the attraction at the Hollis next week.

NEWSBOYS' BAND TO PARADE MONDAY

A parade of the Boston Newsboys' Band, accompanied by a big public demonstration, will take place next Monday night as a sort of "Night Before" program to the second grand ball that will be held in Copley Hall on Tuesday night. Nat Clark was promised to slug along the line of march.

CRAIG PLAYERS SCORE SUCCESS IN 'THE NEW SIN'

The John Craig players scored another big success last night in the presentation of "The New Sin."

Unfortunately, the ladies in the company cannot be complimented. They took no part in the drama. In fact, the drama does not require their talents.

Notwithstanding the fact the play lacks the charm of women, it was well received by the big audience. Mr. Craig, as of old, demonstrated his versatility. Donald Meek and Wilson Melrose also convinced the audience they could both play heavy roles when the play demanded it.

"The New Sin" is replete with situations that require good acting. Perhaps it is true that no new sin or nothing new in the category of sin—is revealed, but the piece is filled with circumstances that are so unusual as to make it extremely gripping.

Mr. Craig portrays a young Englishman who bears the burdens of a big group of dependent brothers and sisters. By the terms of his father's will they will inherit nothing until his death. Hilary Cutts (Mr. Craig) decides that it is better for him to relieve the family by going to his death. Donald Meek, as the brother Maximillian, is eager for him to do so.

In a clash of circumstances, Hilary assumes the blame in place of his brother and is sent to prison. Hilary Cutts (Mr. Craig) decides that it is better for him to relieve the family by going to his death. Donald Meek, as the brother Maximillian, is eager for him to do so.

In a clash of circumstances, Hilary assumes the blame in place of his brother and is sentenced to death.

Of course, Parliament intervenes a few hours before execution. Hilary is pardoned and Maximillian makes a confession. Hilary starts life anew and agrees to pay for his life by buying off the dependent relatives with the proceeds of his paintings.

Wilson Melrose, as the carefree Jim Benziger, and Al Roberts, in the role of a servant, inject a fine bit of comedy.

HAM ASKS CHARTER FOR NEW NATIONAL BANK FOR BOSTON

Guy A. Ham, as counsel, has applied to the comptroller of the currency for a charter for a national bank in Boston, with a capital of $200,000 and a surplus of $200,000. In the original application the name of the new bank was given as the Hancock National Bank, but under a ruling of the comptroller the new bank may take the name of a former national bank located in the same city or town. Years ago there was a national bank in Boston named the Hancock National Bank.

40,000 TO OBSERVE HOLY NAME FEAST

The feast of the Holy Name will be observed next Sunday by all the branches of the Holy Name Society of Boston with impressive ceremonies. Fully 40,000 men assist in the services, which will be held in the Catholic churches of Greater Boston. The leading observance of the feast will be at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross. Solemn vespers and benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will be held at 3:45 p. m. Cardinal O'Connell will preside in the sanctuary. The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. John T. McNicholas of New York, editor of the Holy Name Journal and one of the most eloquent and scholarly members of the great preaching order of St. Dominic.

100 MORE AUTOS FOR PARCEL POST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Owing to the unexpected increase in the volume of the parcel post mail, Postmaster General Hitchcock will hire or purchase 100 additional motor vehicles suitable for rapid delivery of parcels in cities.

REPORT OF CENSUS BUREAU ON COTTON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—A report issued by the Census Bureau shows cotton consumed during December was 443,287 bales, and in cotton manufacturing establishments on December 31, 1,704,420 bales, and in independent warehouses 3,200,615 bales. Imports were 25,075, equivalent to 500-pound bales; exports 1,291,883 running bales. Cotton spindles active during December, 30,146,176.

LEOMINSTER TAX OFFICIALS DEFEND LEVY ON PIERCE

LEOMINSTER, Jan. 14.—The town is waiting for a reply by Harry L. Pierce, the millionaire occupant of Grayling Hall, who says he is going to move to Brookline to escape overassessment, to a statement by the Leominster assessors, defending their tax on the Pierce property. The statement declares the Pierce real estate (Grayling Hall) was assessed only on a thirty-five per cent. valuation, while the poor man is more often assessed at ninety to ninety-five per cent. Regarding Mr. Pierce's gifts to the town, the assessors say:

Of course, if a man does not Here to pay his full and just proportion of the taxes, one can readily see where many gifts might be bestowed on the town, the giver receive proper credit for the same, and still be to the good. This is where the big hole in tax law comes in.

Musterole—Clean, White Mustard Ointment

—Takes the place of the old-time Mustard Plaster. Brings the same quick and delicious relief. And does not raise a single blister.

You get this clean, white ointment out of a clean, white glass jar. You simply rub it on—and the pain is gone!

No mess. You don't have to make a plaster, or bother with a cloth.

Wherever people try MUSTEROLE once, they insist on it always. Every where MUSTEROLE has been introduced the demand grows amazingly. Millions of jars are used annually.

Doctors and Nurses use it and frankly recommend it—ask your doctor. MUSTEROLE is a staple remedy in large hospitals.

MUSTEROLE WILL NOT BLISTER

It relieves everything that grandmother's mustard plaster ever relieved—Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Tonsilitis, Croup, Stiff Neck, Asthma, Neuralgia, Headache, Congestion, Pleurisy, Lumbago, Pains and Aches of the Back or Joints, Sprains, Sore Muscles, Bruises, Chilblains, Frost Bites, Sore Feet, Colds of the Chest (it prevents Pneumonia).

At your druggist's—in 25c and 50c jars and a special large hospital size for $2.50.

Accept no substitute. If your druggist cannot supply you, send 25c or 50c to the MUSTEROLE Company, Cleveland, Ohio, and we will send you a jar, postage prepaid.

WON'T WED ON LESS THAN $10,000 A YEAR

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Any bachelor contemplating marriage on an income less than $10,000 may as well abandon the idea, according to Miss Angeate Perry, who, in an address before the Mothers' Club here, said $10,000 was set by a large number of "representative girls" from whom she had collected data. Most of the girls were just out of college," she said. "Many of them told me," she continued, "that less than $10,000 would mean living without some of the comforts essential to their happiness."

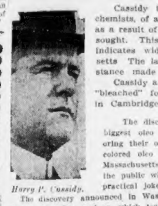
CASSIDY DISCUSSES FEDERAL DISCOVERY OF BIG 'OLEO' FRAUD



Harry F. Cassidy.

Cassidy today discusses the discovery, by the federal chemists, of a gigantic fraud in colored oleomargerine, as a result of which $1,200,000 in back revenue taxes are sought. This discovery, says Cassidy, in all probability indicates a widespread violations of the law in Massachusetts. The law on oleo here is so stringent that no substance made to look like butter can ever be sold.

Cassidy adds also to the story of "doped" and "bleached" food products from the Manhattan Market, in Cambridge.

By HARRY P. CASSIDY.

The discovery by the federal chemists that some of the biggest oleo manufacturers in the country have been coloring their oleo with a secret chemical, and escaping the colored oleo revenue tax, has its significance for the Massachusetts oleo dealers, for the authorities, and for the public which is the butt of all the food swindlers' practical jokes.

The discovery announced in Washington Saturday, and on which testimony was given today, was that the oleo makers had been using a fulvous oil or acid—which made their oleo yellow as butter.

The federal revenue tax on colored oleo is ten cents a pound. On oleo, not colored, it is a quarter of a cent a pound. The government alleges that it was defrauded of the difference. It is declared that the oleo makers, headed by Armour and Company, and subsidiary company, have offered over a hundred thousand dollars by way of settlement.

When you see the big parkers offering to pay huge fines in settlement of charges against them, you may be sure that they are "caught," and are seeking the cheapest way out of the difficulty.

Open to Prosecution.

If it be found that this colored oleo has been for sale in Boston, many a reputable firm here, and scores of less reliable ones, have laid themselves open to prosecution.

The Massachusetts oleo laws are rigorous. Their classification of oleomargerine includes, in addition to its ordinary meaning, "butterine, imitation butter and any article, substance or compound made in imitation or semblance of butter, or as a substitute for butter, and not made exclusively and wholly of milk or cream."

So far as I know that is the most sweeping classification in any State law in the country. Massachusetts milk and butter laws are exceptionally good. They are about the only really adequate laws Massachusetts has.

But the passage which will hit especially hard those who have dealt in the oleo artificially colored by fulvous oil or acid is in Section 41 of the same act. It reads:

Whoever ... renders, manufactures, sells, offers for sale, exposes for sale, takes orders for the future delivery of, has in his possession, keeps in storage, distributes, delivers, transfers, or conveys with intent to sell, any article, product or compound made wholly or in part out of any fat, oil, or oleaginous substance or compound thereof, not produced from unadulterated milk or cream from the same, which shall be in imitation of yellow butter ... shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred, nor more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, but the provisions of this section shall not prohibit the manufacture or sale of oleomargerine in a separate and distinct form, and in such manner as will inform the consumer of its real character, FREE FROM ANY COLORATION OR INGREDIENT WHICH CAUSES IT TO LOOK LIKE BUTTER.

I have quoted this section at length. It is an important one, for, as I interpret it, under this section, any person who deals in oleo colored with fulvous oil or acid to look like butter makes himself liable to the fine.

The discovery of the use of this fulvous oil or acid is one of the romantic incidents of the fight for pure food. One of the government chemists in Boston said to me the other day:

"I often wonder how long it takes us to detect it, after the food dopers begin the use of some new drug in their work."

All we can do is to hunt out these adulterations as rapidly as possible. Publicity is the best cure for them, and laws should be passed for prompt punishment of the dopers of all kinds.

Whether the authorities in Boston will attack those who have sold this colored oleomargarine, I do not know. A Providence firm is named as one of the users of the new color. But it is safe to guess that there will be a revolution in the oleo trade as a result.

The article published in the Sunday AMERICAN, in which I told of the analysis of food samples bought at the Manhattan Market in Cambridge, has aroused intense interest. Many letters come to me from Cambridge yesterday discussing the article, and some brought complaints against other stores and their wares.

I recited simply the result of a few purchases. I found evaporated pears were bleached with sulphur dioxide. I found evaporated peaches which had been similarly doped. I found so-called "sultana raisins" which were not sultanas at all, but were raisins bleached by the use of sulphur dioxide—which Chemist George W. Miles found in his analysis. And I found that the rice sold as "best" rice was coated with a mixture of glucose and talc.

Chemist Miles found "glucose, starch and mineral," while Chemist Lawall of Philadelphia, with whom I worked there, reported, "glucose and talc." In other words Lawall identified the matter Miles reported as mineral and starch. This coating is used on rice to give it a white look. Rice naturally is bluish, but the housewife doesn't like this.

The point was that none of these frauds were explained to the consumer. THE CONSUMER BOUGHT IN BLIND FAITH. HE WAS DECEIVED.

Manhattan Eggs.

My attention was attracted to the Manhattan Market by their attacks upon me personally. They brought various charges, at the time the Housekeepers' League's egg war was in progress.

They advertised at that time that their best storage eggs were selling at twenty-six cents a dozen. They also advertised eggs as equal to the league eggs, which they sold at twenty-two cents a dozen, and they went to Mayor Barry of Cambridge and offered him a quantity of these eggs at nineteen cents.

I called up the market, and asked about these eggs. I was told they were candled storage stock.

The eggs the league was selling were all packed in April. I asked if his were April eggs.

"Oh, no," he said, they were packed in May and June."

May and June eggs, of course, are practically always slightly heated before they are stored. Therefore they are of an inferior quality. I offered to tell all the facts about his offer to Mayor Barry, but the gentleman with whom I talked, who said he was Mr. Potter, said he didn't seek any such publicity.

I went out and bought a dozen of those twenty-six cent eggs, and took them to an expert candler. He declared few as good, and marked as doubtful. The two spots, when broken, contained only a yellowish mass—not of the others, "doubtful," broke and ran together as the shell was candled.

The case was reported to the Board of Health.

I want to make this plain. Whether or not the Manhattan Market violated the law, IT BROKE FAITH WITH ITS CUSTOMERS. It sold rice coated with talc and glucose. That is nothing more nor less than soapstones—and if you saw your baby eating soapstone, you would be panic-stricken.

Sulphur dioxide, with which the fruit was bleached, is also used to bleach your straw hat when you send it to the cleaner in the summer.

THESE DRUGS HAVE NO PLACE IN ANY FOOD OR FRUITS.

MISS KATHARINE HARRISON, WANTED IN MONEY INQUIRY

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—While two United States secret service men shadowed her house, No. 1254 Dean street, Brooklyn, night and day for a week, trying to serve her with a subpoena to appear before the Pujo Committee and reveal some of her vast knowledge of Standard Oil secret, Miss Katherine L. Harrison, who for twenty-five years was private secretary to H. H. Rogers, slipped out of New York and is now either in Europe or Canada.

Miss Harrison left for Canada either December 31 or January 1. She made preparations that indicated she contemplated stopping off in Boston en route, and then spending a day or so in Montreal or Toronto. Two of the three persons who left Brooklyn with her are said to have gone straight to Halifax.

A servant in the Dean street house declares that Miss Harrison is "abroad." Miss Harrison's, sister—Miss Sarah Harrison—said today that Miss Katherine was not in Canada, but she refused to say where her sister could be located.

Known by the financial district and by men of finance the country over as "The Oracle," Miss Harrison was credited with knowing more about the inner secrets and transactions of the Standard Oil Company than any one except John D. Rockefeller himself, Mr. Rogers and John D. Archbold.

During the excitement here a couple of weeks ago caused by the hunt for William Rockefeller, two secret service men were detailed to serve a subpoena upon Miss Harrison. They made at least four ineffectual attempts to gain an audience.

The detectives then decided to watch the house day and night, making occasional calls.

Princess Olga Elizabeth is said to be as amiable as she is beautiful. She is a cousin of Ernest II, Duke of Saxe-Altenburg. Her father was the late Prince Albert Henry by his first wife, who was born a Princess of Prussia. Princess Olga Elizabeth, who is twenty-five years old, was born at the Chateau of Altrechtsberg, near Dresden.

The man whom she loves, Count von Puckler, is one of the noble Silesian family of that name. Some of its members are immensely wealthy.

It is said that on several occasions motors drove up to the door at night and heavily cloaked and veiled figures were seen leaving and entering. Once, according to a neighbor, the two sisters were accosted by a man as they left the house. They hastened back, and the motor drove off without them.

WILSON'S LAST STATE MESSAGE DEMANDS SWEEPING REFORMS

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 14.—A reiteration of President-elect Wilson's progressive principles was contained in his second and last annual message as Governor of New Jersey, which was read in both houses of the New Jersey Legislature today.

The Governor strongly urged the immediate adoption of the amendment to the Federal Constitution permitting the direct election of United States Senators and also of the amendment permitting the government to levy a tax on incomes. He puts himself on record as advocating a drastic reform of the New Jersey corporation laws, likewise the enactment of laws safeguarding the public from the marketing of bogus securities, stating in this respect that "the honesty and soundness of business alike depend upon such safeguards."

For the most part the Governor's message was devoted to reforms having only a local interest. He scored the political ring in Newark in an arraignment of corrupt politics, stating that the power of such men was due to the lack of public meeting places where political matters might be thrashed out. Legislation putting the public schools at the service of the people as political forums was strongly recommended.

The message, in part, follows:

Expresses His Gratitude.

I trust that you will pardon me if the first note I strike in this my second and annual message to your honorable bodies is a personal note. I cannot forget that this, though only my second, is also my last annual message to you. I shall presently lay down the duties of Governor of New Jersey. I cannot turn away from this great office or give up the privileges it has brought me without expressing my gratitude to the people of New Jersey that they gave me this opportunity to serve them, and my sense also of intimate comradeship and obligation towards the men in the Legislature of the State with whom I have been permitted to work in carrying out the reforms of the last two years.

Laws Encourage Monopoly.

The corporation laws of the State notoriously stand in need of alteration. They are manifestly inconsistent with the policy of the federal government and with the interests of the people in the all-important matter of monopoly, to which the attention of the whole nation is now so earnestly directed.

The laws of New Jersey as they stand, so far from checking monopoly, actually encourage it. They explicitly permit every corporation formed in New Jersey, for example, to purchase, hold, assign, and dispose of as it pleases the securities of any and all other corporations of any or any other State and to exercise at pleasure the full rights of ownership in them, including the right to vote as stockholders. This is nothing less than an explicit license for holding companies.

This is the very method of forming vast combinations and creating monopoly, against which the whole country has set its face; and I am sure that the people of New Jersey do not dissent from the common judgment that our law must prevent these things and prevent them effectually.

At Mercy of Companies.

The people of the State are at present, moreover, at the mercy of investment companies of every kind. Securities of any and every sort can be sold in New Jersey by irresponsible persons and the purchasers must depend upon their own investigations to ascertain whether they are going to based upon good business. They should have the protection of the law. Investment companies should be put under inspection and regulation by the State, and no one should be allowed to sell securities in New Jersey without public license issued from the department exercising the rights of inspection and regulation. New Jersey is very late indeed in affording her people this protection.

Social Centre Move Advocated.

A great movement has sprung up in this country in recent years which centres around the schoolhouse as a place of neighborhood conferences in all matters affecting the public or any local part of it. It is known as the social centre movement. It has the force and momentum of a great idea in it. Secret forces, corrupt forces, forces of evil of every kind are afraid of it, are afraid of it. They hear neighborhood discussion. They do not wish to have local and neighborhood matters canvassed too much out loud. It is our duty as public servants to lend full and effectual aid in this movement. We can do it by making public-spirited men and women everywhere free of the use of the school houses. A very simple statute will accomplish the desired result. The free forces of society will do the rest.

Two great amendments to the constitution of the United States await ratification by New Jersey, the amendment conferring upon the Congress of the United States is unmistakable terms the power to levy taxes on incomes, and the amendment providing for the election of Senators of the United States by the direct vote of the people. I can not too strongly urge upon the Legislature the ratification of both these amendments. We can not have our place among the progressive States of the Union and reject them. Indeed, we shall be in a very small minority if we do reject them.

FIND TORSO, IDENTIFY VICTIM IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—Chicago detectives discovered in the backyard of a Turkish coffee house, the torso of the man, one of three cut up and found in a sewer in an alley in the Oriental quarter. It was identified as that of Abdul Ofil, whose partner is being questioned.

UNHAPPY PAIRS DETAIL WOES IN DIVORCE COURT

Judge Dolloway was the centre of trouble in the Suffolk Divorce session today.

Agnes M. Ansert got a divorce from Charles H. Ansert on the ground of cruel and abusive treatment. She told the court she married him when not eighteen years old and that when they were married six months he came home drunk. He brought friends home late at night and compelled her to get out of bed and entertain them she said.

"On one occasion, when he was drunk he threw a lighted lamp at a red-hot stove and set the house on fire.

Anna T. Lynch of Jamaica Plain told the court that after marriage Gilbert A. Lynch joined the navy and ordered to give her any money.

"I was satisfied with that condition," she said, "and had to live on $6 a week at the same time."

Judge Dolloway granted her a decree nisi.

Frank E. Hollins of Boston, told Judge Dolloway that his wife, Augusta M. Hollins had deserted him in 1907. Judge Dolloway granted him a decree nisi.

This Shampoo Stops Hair From Falling

"Alkali shampoos will cause hair to grow dull and lifeless, split at ends and fall out," says Mrs. Mae Martyn in the San Francisco Herald, "and until harmful soaps or mixtures are discontinued there can be no relief. A very fine shampoo mixture can be made by dissolving a teaspoonful canthrox in a cup of hot water. This should be poured on the head slowly and rubbed in well and it will create an abundance of white, creamy lather.

"After a canthrox shampoo the hair dries evenly and quickly, while the scalp is left clean, pliant and healthy. It is not necessary to shampoo every week when canthrox is employed, because its effects are quick and lasting. Continued use of canthrox insures a clean, healthy scalp and an abundance of rich, glossy, attractive hair, easy to do up and of an evenness in color."—Advertisement.

Archbishop of Bombay

THERE are times in every man's or woman's life when the strain upon nerve and brain becomes too heavy, when nerve starvation manifests itself in disturbed sleep, poor digestion and a general run-down feeling. It is then that Sanatogen comes as the friend in need to revitalize and uplift the nervous system, to infuse new strength and endurance. Every day, in every land, thoughtful people avail themselves of the splendid tonic and upbuilding properties of Sanatogen under just such conditions. Hall Caine frankly states "that on more than one occasion Sanatogen has benefited him." Nearer home, the Hon. Wm. C. Adamson, Chairman of the Committee on Interstate Commerce, reports that he has found Sanatogen "valuable to restore wasted energies and to compose the nerves of cases of long-sustained effort and exhaustion."

And remember that more than 16,000 members of the medical profession have recorded in writing their observations of the beneficial action of Sanatogen.

Write for a Free Copy of "Nerve Health Regained"!

If you wish to learn more about Sanatogen before you use it, write for a copy of this booklet, beautifully illustrated and comprising facts and information of the greatest interest.

Sanatogen is sold by good druggists everywhere, in three sizes, from $1.00.

LUXURY GREAT AIM OF AUTO DESIGNERS, BIG SHOW REVEALS

By J. C. KERRISON.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Luxury seems to be the one aim of the motor car manufacturers in the construction of the 1913 automobiles, judging by the display at Madison Square Garden and Grand Central Palace. No woman's boudoir could be more dainty and elegantly furnished than the interior of some of the closed cars on display, for it would appear that the same pride is taken in high priced motor cars as in fine furniture, fine silverware and jewelry. The furnishings and beauty of the lines are not by any means the only evidence of luxury expressed, for with electric lighting and starting, cause a hundred small devices that make the 1913 car the most luxurious conveyance that civilization has put forth.

Leads Even Paris.

The most exquisite thing at the show is an enclosed Locomobile car that has been described as an "Opera Berlin." Manager Kenneth Blake of the Boston branch of the Locomobile company has just returned from a month's trip to Paris, and he gives it as his opinion that there is nothing in the capital of fashion that touches this car for elegance.

All the fittings of this car are triple gold plated, and the material used in upholstering is crimson damask of the period of Louis XV. Among its features are the mirrors in the corners, about ten inches high and four inches wide. There are two in each corner at the rear, and they are framed in delicate Renaissance gild frames. Hanging clamps of chased gold plate are set in the recessed panels between the mirrors. These lamps are of the same period. The leather seats in front are cushioned to correspond with the crimson damask inside.

Gold-Plated Fittings.

Instead of the usual flat roof with sharp edges, the roof of this car meets the side walls in a curve. The upper half of the body is painted black, the lower part and running gear in colors, a reversal of the ordinary idea. There is in this car a toilet outfit with each article in the set finished in gold.

All the fittings, such as lamps, bouquet jars, candles, etc., are gold plated.

In the Locomobile booth there is a violet upholstered limousine body, also done in French Renaissance style and finished in gold. A third enclosed car is fitted up after the style of the Louis period. In this an embossed plush in pretty shades of green is used, a character istic of the materials of that period. The fittings are in oxidized silver.

In the next booth is the Peerless company, which has one of the most striking displays in the garden. A "96" Colonial brougham is the feature of the Peerless display. It is painted black, with orange-yellow paneling, orange-yellow spokes and felloes on which there is a hair line of black striping. The interior compartments front and back—the car has four of velvet plush. All of the exposed woodwork—are ebony finish. There are cut-glass flower vases for the various windows.

Manager John Snow of the Boston branch is here greeting the New Englanders who are looking over the Peerless display. He says that he will bring the Colonial brougham to the Boston show.

The Pierce-Arrow company having perfected their car mechanically have for some time turned their attention toward beauty of lines and greater luxuries. Their latest output shows little if any change in the power plant, but they have added many refinements that make this car the last word in luxury.

J. W. McGuire, the Boston distributor of this line, and Allen C. Ware, his sales manager, are in attendance at the Pierce-Arrow display. Many Bostonians now in the city have visited this particular display.

The Pierce-Arrow still clings to the right-hand drive. One of the unique features of the enclosed type is a swivel arrangement on the panel of the door, which permits lowering the glass for ventilation. The arched roof above the door is now used on all the new limousine types.

The Premier Company have on exhibit a chassiper that has attracted a lot of attention. It is done in a light green, while the seat and back is upholstered with Spanish leather and French tapestry, and all of the exposed wood is birds-eye maple. Manager H. I. Fade of the Boston branch is particularly enthusiastic over this model, and predicts that he will have a sale of them among Boston's smart set.

Alco Display Distinctive.

The Alco display is perhaps the most distinctive one in the show. The entire exhibition space is given over to a single car which is on a raised platform with three steps. And there is a rug lying so it makes a path from the rear of the enclosure by which those interested may enter. The car has a touring body and cafe au lait with a broad white belt around it. The wheels are in natural wood and finished in white. The upholstery is in light brown suede. The general effect, which is the one striven for, is of a delicate car in an exclusive setting.

One of the latest products in the motor world is the Little "Six" and Chevrolet "Six" which is being manufactured by the Republic Motor Company of Detroit. This is the first time that the public has had a chance to inspect these cars. Manager W. C. Sills of the Boston branch is in charge of the display at the Grand Central Palace and he has every reason to be enthusiastic over his new line.

The Little "Six," which is the lowest-priced six-cylinder car now manufactured in America, is on exhibition as well as the four-cylinder roadster. The "six" has 106-inch wheel base, 1 head, 3.3-16-inch bore, 4½-inch stroke. The car attracted a lot of attention and the trade gave it a pretty close inspection.

The Chevrolet "Six."

To quote Mr. Sills, the Chevrolet "Six" is a bear of a car. It certainly is distinctive and the specifications usually call for a higher price than the one asked for the car.

The Chevrolet touring cars that are displayed are done in white enamel and a wine color. The latter has a waterproof cloth top that harmonizes in color with the body. The pointed hood, large wheel base, large tires and heavy artillery wheels, give it a foreign look.

The Lenox car, which is the only "made in Boston" automobile that is on exhibition, has attracted a lot of attention. Sales Manager Hadley has his sales force from Boston in attendance at the exhibit in the Grand Central Palace. A stripped chassis, a five-passenger, four-cylinder car, and a "Big Six," the latest output of the Lenox company, is in the display. The six-cylinder car is a big, powerful, roomy car fitted with electric starter, and lighting device, and has everything in the matter of refinement and detail that is to be found on the latest cars.

M'CARNEY BUSY DODGING DATES FOR CHAMPION

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14.—Who was it said that pugilism is simply a jumble of gore, greed, slugging and cardiness? Will never a gleam of humor about it anywhere?

Just the word this from the Middle West:

W. W. NAUGHTON

Billy McCarney, mgr. of Luther McCarty, the new king of white heavyweights, said in effect in a telegram to a Chicago newspaper that Jess Willard must make a reputation before he would be given a fight by the ruler of the big division.

You fall to see a "gleam of humor" in that, you say? Well, that's because you are not posted. If you knew the facts the gleam would be as apparent as the glow that surrounds "a bad bolster 2, a dark collar."

McCarty Doesn't Forget.

Jess Willard is the one man among the hopes who gave Luther McCarty a thumping that he will never forget. That he does not forget, it is made evident by Manager McCarney's outburst that Willard must make a reputation.

The writer has by him clippings showing the manner in which various Eastern critics viewed the go between Luther and Jess at Madison Square Garden last August.

In telling Willard to go and get a reputation, Billy McCarney shows he is lacking in aplomb or finesse or whatever it is that distinguishes a good manager from a bungler. Here is what he should have said:

"Luther McCarty recognizes that Jess Willard is a worthy candidate for the white heavyweight championship and fully intends that Willard shall get a chance at the title.

Where Willard Comes Back.

"Just as present, however, McCarty is arranging the details of a theatrical tour and when that is over probably will be matched with Bombardier Wells.

"McCarty rather favors the latter match on account of its international significance, but when he is through with Mr. Wells he will have hesitate to entertain a challenge from Willard."

McCarney might have gotten away with something like the foregoing, but by coming back on the old ground-gee-reputation stretch, he has left an opening which Willard might take advantage of as follows:

"Why? Why, I licked the man you are losing ground on championship of the world. What better reputation do I require?

ARRANGE THE RELAY RACES FOR B. A. A. INDOOR GAMES

Colonel George Billings of the B. A. A. has arranged the majority of the relay races for the big indoor track meet of the Unicorn Club next month.

The team races, apart from a midget race between the B. A. A. midgets and Roxbury Latin midgets, number eighteen, and are as follows: Harvard vs. Cornell, Harvard vs. Yale, varsity; Harvard vs. Yale, freshmen; Harvard vs. Dartmouth vs. M. I. T., Amherst vs. Brown, Williams vs. Wesleyan, Worcester Poly vs. Massachusetts A. C., Tufts vs. Vermont, Colby vs. Bates, Colgate vs. Syracuse, Bowdoin vs. Maine, Dartmouth vs. M. I. T., Brookline Gym vs. Providence, New Hampshire vs. Rhode Island, B. A. A. vs. New York A. C., L. A. A. vs. Pastimes, Boston College vs. Holy Cross, Fordham vs. ——. There will be three, 880-yard relays, and the others will be 20-yard sprints to the mark, excepting in the midgets.

KLING TURNS DOWN OFFER FROM REDS

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 14.—After conferring with Johnny Kling, Joe Tinker, manager of the Cincinnati National League team, admitted today that he had made no progress in his efforts to secure the signature of the former manager of the Chicagos to a contract to play with Cincinnati next year. Tinker intimated that he offered Kling a contract as remunerative as he had with Boston last year. Kling again said that he probably would not play ball this year.

BOWLING NOTES

Harry Howard of Natick, an ex-member of the Casino City League team, through his manager, John Hart, has issued a challenge to "Bo" Hartford, the new member of Don McPhee's quintet, to roll a match of twenty strings. Hartford has accepted and the match will take place within a period of ten days, probably at the Boylston and Boston alleys. Hartford jumped into prominence recently in a match with Billy Gregg. Howard is an uncertain roller in match games.

John Christopher is anxiously awaiting an answer from Paul Poehler. "Chris" can see no reason why Poehler should be holding back and would like to talk business and arrange for a match as soon as possible.

The first half of the City League season will come to an end at the next meeting of the organization tomorrow night. It looks as though Charlie Hurlbut will have the honor of leading the teams through the first period. The league so far has been very successful and every week finds a much closer race.

An interesting match should result today when the Revere team meets the South Boston Y. C. in the Suburban interclub series. South Boston has a good chance to overcome the position and incidentally break the tie with Wilson.

It is evident that the Arlington Boat Club intends to take the honors in the Newton-Boston pin series from the start. They lost to North Gate by the hardest kind of luck in the last two series, despite the fact that they carried off every prize worth mentioning.

ALL ATHLETICS SIGNED.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14.—Connie Mack announced today that all but a few members of his team had signed their 1913 contracts and that some were holdouts in comparison to the special scratch races.

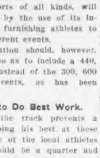
INDOOR TITLE TRACK GAMES AID TO SPORT

By THOMAS J. HALPIN.

Quarter-mile champion of the United States and Canada.

The plan of the New England Amateur Athletic Union in holding a set of indoor championship games is receiving much praise from athletic authorities throughout the city. The Metropolitan body, which is the strongest in the A. A. U., does not conduct a set of games such as these for the athletes.



This is the biggest boost that indoor sport has received in New England for some time. The B. A. A., which has always fostered sports of all kinds, will aid the association by the use of its indoor track and by furnishing athletes to compete in the different events.

The local association should, however, change the events so as to include a 440, 880 and mile run instead of the 300, 600 and 1,000-yard events, as has been planned.

Stars Unable to Do Best Work.

The nature of the track prevents a competitor from doing his best at these distances and many of the local athletes feel that there should be a quarter and half-mile event on the program, as Harvard, Tech, Brown and the B. A. A. have a wealth of material of quarter and half-milers and would have to use them in the other events.

The mile run should prove of interest as there are several fine milers who would compete, whereas if a thousand-yard race is held they could not show their best form. This applies to Hedlund and Powers, and also Lawless, the Harvard miler.

Tech will enter a large number of men as will Harvard. This meet will give the colleges a chance to compete against the clubs, an opportunity they have been seeking for some time, as many of the University athletes are eager to test their speed against several of the club champions.

Local Athletes Well Pleased.

When the outdoor championship meeting is held most of the college men are not in the best of shape to compete, and the result is that they are badly beaten by men whom they could easily defeat if they were in proper condition.

Not only Harvard and Brown will be entered, but all of the New England colleges will send teams as it is the only chance they will have to compete in a scratch meet in New England.

The local champions are greatly pleased that they have an opportunity of showing what they can do on equal terms with their other competitors. It is almost impossible for a scratch man to win an event on the Mechanics building track and for this reason the times returned for the handicap events have always been slow in comparison to the special scratch races.

HARVARD MEN ELECT NEW FOOTBALL HEAD AT MEETING TODAY

The selection of a man to lead next season's team should have taken place before the Christmas holidays but it was "held up" on several occasions by the illness of prominent members of the team.

"Bob" Storer, the Boston boy who scored the first touchdown in the game with Yale, and "Rex" Hitchcock, who hails from Hawaii, are the leading candidates for the position of captain. Both of these men made a fine showing on the gridiron last Fall and are the only members of the championship team who will be seniors next year. All of the other players will have either graduates from college or will be members of the junior class.

O'Brien and Gardiner Candidates.

There is an unwritten law at Harvard which says that only seniors can lead a varsity athletic team. This is the reason why the followers of the Crimson eleven are so confident that either Storer or Hitchcock will be chosen to lead the team next year.

There are two other candidates for the position of captain. They are Francis J. O'Brien, who played end on the varsity last Fall, and Tudor Gardiner, who acted as coach of the freshmen eleven. It is believed that one of these two men will be elected if there is a deadlock in the voting for Storer and Hitchcock.

Gardiner, like Storer and Hitchcock, will be a senior next year, but he has never won his varsity "H." He was a member of the Harvard eleven in 1911 but was seriously injured in the Princeton game and so was not able to play against Yale. Gardiner's parents objected to his playing football last Fall, but as he is a remarkable student of the game, he was selected to coach the freshman squad, which is a great honor.

Expect Close Election.

The fight between Storer and Hitchcock is sure to be a close one. Both men are very popular in Cambridge and have many admirers. Storer was president of his freshman class, while Hitchcock is now president of the junior class.

It is not believed, however, that the election will depend upon one vote. Harvard men believe that either Storer or Hitchcock will have a majority of at least three votes.

OPEN SERIES FOR HARVARD SEVENS

The battle for the semi-championship of Harvard is on. Here are some of the names of the teams which are out to win honors on the ice: Little Jeffs, New Moons, Irondoughts, Bisques, Puny Lambs, Celery Bears, Whanglingers, Georgians, Hard Guys, Wish-a-Goal, Canned Peaches, Husky Hobsons, Beavers, Chucka-Puck, Dinghats, Nevertrains, Seven Deadly Sins, Yinbelets.

Bobbie Burns

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

WHEN the sky seems lower some how, closing down to shut me in Closing down to roof a prison full of sorrowing and of sin,
There's a book I always worship, as a mother loves her child
And I con its pages over when I have it all alone
For the heart that's full of sunshine or the stricken heart that yearns
What a mine of priceless nuggets are the songs of Bobbie Burns!

Countless lips with grief have straightened, countless lips with mirth have curled
Since the coming and the going of the Plowboy of the World;
But the lines he fashioned lightly hold a deep and deathless spell,
O'er the mortals who are groping thro' the world he knew so well.
Just a homely boy who warbled of his Scottish hills and lakes,
He was worshiped for his genius; he was loved for his mistakes.

How Hypocrisy was riddled by the shots he fired so well!
How he sang his songs of Heaven while he laughed at threats of Hell!
Little babies could command him, but no monarch had control
Of his wondrous brain and manhood, or his sturdy, troubled soul.

Sometimes straws my Sicily fancy, but forever it returns
The little battered volume—just the songs of Bobbie Burns.

The Wonder Girl and Jack "Dine" at the Club

DRAWN BY G. MICHELSON

They were "starved"—so they said—
And they stopped the machine
At the Country Club famed
For its perfect cuisine;
And Jack, in his wild
And extravagant way,
Ordered all that he saw
In the menu's display.

The dishes were cooked
And the waiters appeared
With dainties delicious
And wondrous and weird;
But over the top
Of the table they saw
A lovely hand clasped
In a masculine paw.

They dared not approach.
Their "A-heme" were in vain.
The "diners" seemed lost
In a mist of the brain.
The head waiter, wise,
Came and gazed at the pair,
But o'er HIS nerve
It was too much to dare.

They feasted their eyes
For an hour or more,
Oblivious quite
Of the gazers galore;
And Jack paid the bill,
And they hurried away.
You can't live on Love?—
THAT'S what idiots say!

Monday Banners

By CHESTER FIRKINS

NO banners of the Italian hosts,
In pomp of triumph flown,
No flaming flags of jubilee
Or Carnival outthrown
Can match the range of the sprees
When to the breezes cast,
The pennants of the Monday morn
Flare forth from roof and mast

The weary city is adorned
The first a workship dressed
With standards of all shapes and hues
The crowd goes too abroast.
The red shirt ordinals announces
Each sentimental mood
While blue pajama memories
And suggestions of white

The streamers beg upon their staves.
A billion buttoned shirts
To hold the sunday visitors back
That all for flags are lost.
Till down from windows pending near
The black semble banners fly
And make the washday bunner black
Before they're time to dry

Bad Weather

Cecil (sentimentally)—Don't you feel gloomy when the sky is overcast with gray, when the pitiless rain sends a dirge up on the roof and the mourner's garments are hid by the weeping skies?

Hazel (sweetly)—Yes, I do; it's unlucky if it does make one's hair come out of curl so.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox Says

Educating Mothers Is World's Best Work

Copyright, 1913, by the Star Company.

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

THIS pathetic letter, unsigned, holds a world of unwritten sorrow in its few pages, and a whole sermon is to be read between its lines. It should set every woman who believes herself to be a friend to her sex thinking, and it should give every ardent suffragist a moment of self-analysis to discover just what her attitude is, or would be under similar circumstances.

Here is the letter:

"A girl that is an unmarried mother is a social outcast, whether the cause was from ignorance or a false lover. Only those who have experienced this know the obstacles placed to hinder such a girl living a virtuous, useful life. If she applies for a position, or wishes to join a church, a social society, or a sewing circle, or anything leading to a better life, the members may not openly deny admission, but they freeze her out by being so unsocial. Every human being needs living associates and friends. If a girl who has erred confesses her error, and does not try to hide her past, it seems better to me, because it saves her from being found out later; yet when she does confess, then she meets with much cruelty. Women that are married and are having shameful affairs with other men, even bearing children by men not their husbands, will frown on a girl who has made a misstep and is trying to be decent.

"Girls that are immoral, but have not become mothers, will turn their backs on the unfortunate unwedded mother who has made only one misstep; and will in every way try to hinder her from being received by respectable people.

"So what is left for her but to go on down?"

The writer of this letter adds a plea that the matter should be [illegible] discussion and solved. I [illegible] helped if it were written [illegible]. They need help now.

Yes, girls need help, and more are the pity that it does not come to them. They need it because they know more of great facts which underlie the social [illegible].

Two boys reared by wise and [illegible] brothers were instructed as to the good [illegible] in matters of sex. They were taught [illegible] human beings were a part of God's wonderful systems of worlds; and how, like the seed planted in the earth, they grew and flowered. They were told how sacred and beautiful it was; and how they must never refer to the subject save to their mothers, who would explain [illegible] marvels of life as their minds [illegible].

They were told that all women were once pure and good; and that each girl and woman should be cared for as a brother or sister; and just as a boy would want to see his sister all women respected and treated with [illegible] kindness by all men, so they must treat all women.

Most of these boys at present are magnificent specimens of young manhood, [illegible] strong, capable, high minded fellows, popular with their own sex and admired by women; and both married good girls and carried no shameful secrets or no hidden diseases to mar their new homes or blight their offspring.

At the age of twenty-two, one night a youth, brought up by such a mother, came home from his club accompanied by a young girl. To his mother he said: "Mother, this poor girl is some fellow's sister; some mother's daughter. She has gone wrong, and she accosted me on the street. I want you to take her in and help her to live a good life if you can."

There would be no such evil in the land as White Slave traffic, if all women were such mothers as those described above. Everything relating to these problems LIES IN THE HANDS OF THE WOMEN TO-DAY.

[illegible] world can be accomplished [illegible] race or to do [illegible] life and the souls [illegible] efforts to do so.

We [illegible] save ourself by [illegible] and in a seeming [illegible] where is the danger?

asked the young English girl.

A terror almost such as might come to one demented—at imaginary perils—crossed the pallid face of the man in clerical garb.

"Marjorie Gertrude Sartoris," he said, "do I hear—at my throat next save [illegible]

Mr. Haslam, you are in no danger," Brandreth said, reassuringly.

"Why not? Does he stop at anything?" went on the frightened clergyman.

"[illegible] determined that [illegible] cross or that the [illegible] [illegible]

"[illegible] and Haslam [illegible] Lady Dips. Fear sucks from [illegible]

There was a murmur of astonishment from Brandreth and Lady Diana, and then the pale clergyman hurried on.

"What was his work—wasn't it? [illegible] the argument?"

"[illegible] had left Betty's side and was [illegible] listening to Haslam.

"I know it was his work, sir [illegible] [illegible] I heard it planted between him and Mrs. d'Aquila."

The vicar was looking straight before him, in the vacancy he seemed to see horrible sights, hear terrifying sounds.

"Murder" he muttered. "A dozen lives—a hundred—what did he care? He would hint [illegible] them to gain his end. Would he stop at mine?"

"[illegible] would he want" — Brandreth began.

"[illegible] forever! The silence of the grave," said the clergyman almost [illegible] to himself in an [illegible] passion [illegible] I hope—his villainy be devoted [illegible] fear. [illegible] held me dumb [illegible] Now I have seen his work, his plans—complete—reckless—remorseless—the crash—the torn bodies on the line—I've seen the fire—heard the children [illegible] he my life to him" [illegible] Put [illegible] walls between [illegible] I can alone expect [illegible]

[illegible] asked the young [illegible] closer to Haslam and looking at him [illegible]

Haslam raised his head looked directly at the questioner, and then at Lady Diana.

"The lie that wrecked your lives," he said.

After a pause he went on:

"There was a marriage. That is true. Between me and Mrs. d'Aquila?" he mimicked Brandreth.

"Between the woman—and one who took your place. I confessed the wedding; [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

The Temptations of a Working Girl

By Hal Reade

A Thrilling Story of the Trials of a Beautiful Girl in a Great City

PART I.

"YES, I am to meet Annie Lawrence here. It is time she was here now. Do you finish the work with her you started with her last night. Hide, Bates, she is coming," cried Wharton suddenly.

This conversation had taken place on a little bridge which led over an excavation for the subway. There was a high railing on one side. Bates was able to climb over, and get a footing on a projection extending out from the flooring. Wharton met Annie purposely directly in front of Bates' hiding place. He was all smiles.

"I see you have come, Annie," he said, allowing a pretended tone of fondness to creep into his voice.

To Annie his welcome was like the music of a sweet song. Although he had treated her basely she had never quite forgotten the love she had borne for this man. Again, as a woman, she could not forget that he was the father of her child, whom she loved dearly.

"Annie!" And she lingered over the name. "How good it sounds to hear you call me Annie once more. Oh! I have been so fearful that you did not receive what you wrote. God bless you, Alnsleigh. You mean to right me now, you do mean to give my little girl Bessie an honest name, don't you?"

"Why, of course, Annie. I have found after all that I do love you. Kiss me, dearie."

Bates Stabs Annie

The innocent girl stepped into his arms. Slowly he turned her around until her back was toward Bates. That villain had slowly risen above the railing, plunged a knife into Annie's back, and then, tossing the weapon to the floor of the bridge, he disappeared as silently as he had appeared.

Wharton stepped back and over Annie's mouth to stifle any cry. Her eyes were closed, and she appeared to have died instantly. Wharton allowed her to sink to the bridge and disappeared as he thought.

Scarcely was he out of sight before Jack, hurriedly crossing the bridge to meet Mamie, stumbled across the body.

"My God! It is Annie Lawrence," he cried, picking up the knife, "and she has been murdered!"

Wharton, from his vantage point, had seen in a moment what an excellent opportunity had presented itself to fasten the crime on Jack. Running up to the bridge he called: "Help! Police! Murder!"

Jack looked up joyfully at this sign of assistance. "That's right, man, call help. Let us forget everything and see if we cannot do something for this poor girl."

Tenderly he raised Annie in his arms. Her senses revived for a moment.

"Bess!—Father!" she heard her gasp faltering ly. "You—you mean, you are my mother, I see you, you are waiting by the gate," slowly she sank back into his arms and died.

"She is dead," said Jack, looking about him. At this moment a policeman ran up and asked if anyone had called for help.

"Yes, officer," said Wharton, pointing to Jack. "Arrest that man. I saw him stab that poor girl to death just now. See, he has the knife in his hand yet."

Jack Is Arrested

The officer walked over and laid his hand on the young workingman's shoulder, telling him he was under arrest. At that moment Mamie ran on the bridge, and seeing Jack in custody with officer, cried, "What has happened?"

"Why, Mamie, I was looking for you. He was so dazed he could hardly speak. "I had to go farther than the hotel for the money. I came back and found her dying. I found the knife. See, here it is." Wharton called for help, and when the officer came he accused Jack of the crime.

"While here's the guilty man!" she cried, pointing an accusing finger at Wharton.

"Somehow," he replied, "it was I who called for help. Does a man commit murder and then call his world to witness it?"

"A trick, Ainsleigh Wharton, to throw aside suspicion," cried Mamie. "Jack Fallon was one of my best friends, while you are the man who ruined her."

"It's a lie!" replied Wharton furiously. "It's the truth, for Annie Lawrence told me so."

"Mr. Officer," said Wharton, turning to him, "this girl is to be married to this man within a week. Calls explain the stand she takes. Take your prisoner away. He is a dangerous man. He assaulted me in my own factory a few days ago. I can and will testify to his bad character."

"Ainsleigh Wharton," cried Jack, "you hold my life in your hands, but I swear by all the evidence is against me. I am as good as electrocuted now, but there is a God above who knows I am innocent; He will not desert me in the hour of my need, Mr. Officer, I am ready."

As the policeman was leading Jack away the young hero said:

"Mamie, my poor girl, what are you going to do?"

"Stick by you until the last moment," she cried loyally. "Ainsleigh Wharton has done this crime, so sure as there is a God in heaven, and if he will not live it will prove him guilty."

"Watch the body, please," said the officer, "until I can telephone for the coroner and an ambulance."

"Certainly," he replied. "I shall gladly do anything to aid justice."

"And so sure am I to see justice will find you!" cried Mamie, appealing to heaven.

Wharton smiled, triumphantly.

In the excitement Bates had climbed over the railing and mingled with the crowd which had gathered, then he had slipped away without being seen by Mamie or Jack.

Late in the morning Mrs. Malloy returned home. They found Bessie asleep. At Police Headquarters, wher- she had been taken as a lost child by a policeman.

Jack Fallon spent a sleepless night in the station house. The next morning he was taken to the Tombs, where Mamie called on him and made arrangements for a lawyer. Jack was able to retain a good one, as he mortgaged the little property he had bought for his future home on Long Island.

His friends in the chair factory in the district called about the city and did what they could to save him. Even his employers contributed to the fund which had been raised for his defense.

The examination by the Coroner was a mere formality.

Indicted for Murder

Jack was returned to the Tombs charged with killing Annie Lawrence. He was indicted for murder by the Grand Jury that was then sitting. The evidence against him was so strong that the District Attorney put his trial on the calendar for an early hearing.

Mamie visited him daily. She was his chief hope and comforter.

Annie Lawrence's body was taken to Mrs. Malloy's home. The kind Irish girls in the cigarette factory raised a fund that buried her. Old Mrs. Malloy adopted Bessie.

On the day of Jack's trial the court room was crowded with his friends. The trial was a short one. The policeman testified to the finding of Jack bending over Annie's body with a knife in his hand.

When Wharton had been put on the stand he swore he had been walking down the street when he saw Jack talking to Annie, and that he had seen Jack stab her in the back. The cross-examination by Jack's lawyer could make no headway. His testimony, which has a telling effect on the Jury.

When Mamie was put on the stand she tried to tell of Wharton's enmity for Jack, because of her acceptance of his proposal of marriage, and her refusal to marry her employer. She testified that Wharton, one of his tools, had killed the poor girl. She attempted to tell that Annie had told her that Wharton had ruined her, and was the father of little Bess. All of this testimony was ruled out, as the judge declared it had no bearing on the case.

Mrs. Malloy told of her being decoyed away from home by Bates.

Even little Bessie was questioned, but could tell nothing more than that she had been "losted" and had found "Mamma Annie" asleep on the bridge.

Guilty of Murder

The summing up by the Assistant District Attorney was conclusive, although he was not able to prove any motive for the crime.

Jack's lawyer made a stirring appeal for his acquittal on the ground that there was no reason why Jack should have slain the girl.

The jury was out less than an hour. They brought in a verdict of murder in the first degree.

When Mamie heard the verdict she broke down for the first time and wept bitterly. Mrs. Malloy and her friends took the poor girl to her blighted home.

Two days later Jack was sentenced to death. Only six weeks had elapsed from the time of the murder to the conviction.

Newspapers had paid little attention to the murder and trial, as other topics of greater importance engrossed their attention.

Jack's case seemed so hopeless, and his funds had become so low that even his lawyer would not appeal the case, believing that his client was doomed to die.

Jack was taken to Sing Sing. The next day he was lodged in the death chamber. Throughout all of his bitter experiences Jack kept up the hope that he would be saved. He was even stronger than Mamie, and now cheered her up whenever she visited him.

When Wharton had gotten Bates fully in his power, fearing he might betray him, he told the police that his spy was a man named Bates, who had employed Jonathan Sikes for his money. The police worked secretly on the murder for several days, and were then able to arrest Bates, who on Bates without his learning who had informed on him.

Bates' trial and Jack's ran on about the same time and both were sent to Sing Sing on the same day.

Although Bates suspected that Wharton had betrayed him in order to save himself, he never confessed to the murder of Annie Lawrence, or implicated Wharton in any way. Wharton had no fear on the latter score, and testified that Bates was in his employ. That was the only time he had seen him since his arrest.

Bates was certain of death if he confessed to the murder, and clung to the hope that some day he would be pardoned, or escape from Sing Sing, where he was sentenced for life. One point that Mamie insisted upon was her marriage to Jack. She wanted to bear his name, although he was a convicted murderer. She believed him innocent, even if all the world thought him guilty. The day was set for their marriage.

Wharton could not avoid the temptation to gloat over his triumph and see Mamie once more.

On the day of the ceremony he was the first to arrive at Sing Sing. The guard admitted him to the warden's office.

"My credentials, Warden Watson," he said, handing a card to the head of the prison.

While the warden was looking at the card Wharton murmured, "Now does he know that the credentials are stolen from a newspaper friend?"

"All right, Mr. Williamson," said the warden.

Williamson is an assumed name, Mr. Watson. The mom-de-plume under which I write. My name is Wharton."

"Oh, I see," said the warden, smilingly. "A great many of our newspaper men use assumed names for writing purposes, understand."

The warden had political hopes and never offended reporters.

"Oh, yes, quite a number," said Wharton.

"Wharton! Wharton! What is the first name?" looking at the card again with a puzzled air.

"Ainsleigh," he replied.

"Then you were a witness against two men. One condemned to die by electrocution, and Bates, sentenced for life, is one of them."

"Yes, I saw Jack Fallon kill Annie Lawrence and knew Bates strangled old Jonathan Sikes for his money. Both were heinous crimes and I shall be very glad to see one die in the electric chair and the other at work serving a life sentence."

"And I," replied the warden, never disagreed with any one. "But I shall be sorry to see Fallon go," he continued.

"Indeed, and why?" asked Wharton.

"Because I have boys of my own," he replied.

"I suppose you will grant me the privilege of going through the prison, then?"

"Certainly! You will see Bates in the shoe shop. We think we have a model institution here, sir."

Warden Watson called a guard and ordered him to show Wharton through the prison.

"He's a newspaper man," he said, "and one of the witnesses against the murderer of poor Jack Fallon."

Wharton assumed the air of a reporter and pretending great enthusiasm, said:

"This is a great news story, warden. A man married four days after his conviction."

"It may seem so to you, sir, but consider the poor man and woman. Miss Malloy has tenaciously asserted Jack Fallon's innocence and has been instrumental in coming his wife in the very face of death, which only proves that there is nothing on earth to equal the length and depth of a woman's love," said the warden, who looked at him severely.

"We all differ in our opinions, warden but I think she is making a great mistake by linking her name with that of a convicted and to be executed assassin," said Wharton, changing his tactics.

"He that as it may, I sympathize with both of them, and have given my consent to their marriage here in my office," replied the warden coldly.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

Stock markets were weak at the opening, but in Boston the tone seemed a little firmer than it was late yesterday. At the end of the first hour Hancock, Granby, Copper Range and American Telephone & Telegraph were fractionally higher.

In the recessional list were: U. S. Smelting was off ½, Lake ¾, Utah Consolidated ¼, Calumet & Arizona ¾, Mayflower ½, North Butte ¼ and Tamarack and Isle Royale a point each.

In New York the political situation was blamed more than anything else for the weakening of the market, and President-elect Wilson's recent utterances caused selling for both long and short accounts.

Directors of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company met this morning as did the executive committee. It is expected that a plan of financing to provide the corporation with needed funds for 1913 will be announced. The latest report is that there will be a bond issue.

The New York sub-treasury had $2,288,000 to banks yesterday and there Friday has lost $6,761,000.

New York Market Opens Weak.

The New York market was weak at the opening, the losses ranging around a point. There was a big supply of stocks and an absence of demand. The greatest initial decline was in American Beet Sugar, which sold off 1¾. Losses of a point were suffered by American Tobacco, Reading, American Car and Foundry, Westinghouse Electric and Machinery and People's Gas of Chicago.

Union Pacific opened unchanged, and later gained ⅛, but at the end of twenty minutes was ⅜ under Monday's closing.

Southern Pacific was ¼ lower. Unclassified Copper, after gaining ¾, lost its advance and ranged fractionally under Monday's final. Among specialties Lorillard was down 1½, Third Avenue Transit ¾, Southern Railway ¾, Rock Island ⅛, Colorado Fuel & Iron ¾, Northern Pacific ¾, New York Central ¼, American Can ¼, Colorado Fuel & Iron ¾, Missouri Pacific ¾ and Lehigh Valley ⅛.

The Curb was weak.

Rates for Americans in London were heavy. Canadian Pacific rallied from its lowest there.

The Break in Copper Metal.

There was a big slump in copper warrants on the London Metal Exchange today, spot opening £1 5s. and futures £1 7s. 6d. lower. It was also cabled from the British metropolis that the price asked there by leading American producers was 17½ cents for electrolytic.

It is said that the break in the price of copper metal was due to the decision that for some time one important selling agency had been quietly selling at a figure below 17½ cents a pound. The offer by the American Smelting & Refining Company to buy copper at 17½ cents a pound recalled the fact that it led the slump from 18 to 17½ cents, caused by the failure to take whatever price it could get.

The present drop in price may have considerable effect upon manufacturing lines where copper is largely used. In Europe it is 16½ cents a pound.

"Consumers have considerable business on their books," said a leading factor in copper metal prices, and it will be interesting to watch developments there pending further price changes by the latter. It also has been suggested that should copper metal break wide open there will be cancellation of orders for finished goods unless the manufacturers readjust their contracts to conform to the decline in the copper metal market."

Thompson-Toon Company have this afternoon issued the following statement: "Our leading international authority tells us that he believes 300,000,000 pounds to 400,000,000 pounds of copper can be sold here and abroad at 16½ cents for forward delivery. The consumers both here and abroad, however, have booked large orders based on a 17½-cent price. Any copper sold by the producers will have to cover their copper requirements at a saving of a cent per pound and it is this view of the situation that has induced the producers together for a maintenance of prices in the face of known existing stocks in the hands of the consumers."

Financial News in Brief

Wall Street generally expects money rates to stiffen about February 1 because new security issues will absorb so much capital.

R. C. Forbes says in the New York American: "The New York Stock Exchange should forthwith purge itself of the now unpolitic rules, one boycotting the Consolidated Stock Exchange, the other boycotting all but two minor engraving companies outside the powerful American Bank Note Company."

Sears, Roebuck & Co. directors will meet tomorrow. It is reported in Chicago dispatch, and declare the usual quarterly dividend of 2% per cent. on common stock. It is reported by the Census Bureau in Washington that cotton consumption during December was 570,000 running bales.

In 1912 the Pullman Company's gross earings were $40,210,748 against $38,994,-210 in 1911. In the month of December the land and the capital stock increased from $74,000,000 to $75,000,000 by the payment of stock dividends.

HARVARD 'SMOKERS' COST $2,000 YEARLY

The report of the Harvard senior class secretary shows that $4,000 was expended for three "smokers" at about $150 each. Since each of the four classes averages several such smokers, it is believed that these student soirees add about $2,000 to the already declared high cost of living at the university.

CAPT. ROSTRON IN PERIL ON CARONIA
NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Captain Arthur S. Rostron of the Cunarder Carpathia, who brought to port the survivors of the Titanic disaster in April, narrowly escaped serious injury aboard the Caronia Thursday, according to officers of the vessel. Captain Rostron, now in command of the Caronia, was on the bridge when he heard a crash. Looking aft, he saw a lifeboat bearing directly at him on the crest of a giant wave. He ducked and was drenched but the boat passed over his head and was splintered on the deck.

A Chance for YOU Who Read This to Help Good Lawmaking

The Clapp Committee at Washington Would be VERY GLAD to Know What YOU Think About Corruption of Officials by Trust Owners. It Is Your Duty to Write a Letter and Go on Record.

To every reader of this newspaper we say most earnestly YOU OUGHT TO WRITE TO THE CLAPP COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING ARCHBOLD, FORAKER, BAILEY, SIBLEY AND THE STANDARD OIL CORRUPTION OF SENATORS AND CONGRESSMEN JUST WHAT YOU THINK ABOUT CORRUPTION OF PUBLIC OFFICIALS BY CORPORATIONS.

You know how important to you, to your family, to the future, to good government and general prosperity is the work that the Clapp committee is doing.

The publication of the Standard Oil letters proved that Mr. Archbold of the Standard Oil, and doubtless others representing other corporations, WERE IN THE HABIT OF SENDING CHECKS, OR "CERTIFICATES OF DEPOSIT," for thousands and tens of thousands of dollars to lawmakers of the United States.

You know that the publication of these letters put Foraker, Bailey and Sibley out of public life.

You know that Archbold not only does not deny, but ADMITS the authenticity of the letters.

It would seem, perhaps, that there is nothing to do except put the facts on record, and allow the committee of Senators, headed by Senator Clapp, to take the necessary action.

However, there are conditions of which you have perhaps not thought, and these conditions make it important that YOU, as a good citizen, interested in good government, should write personally to Senator Clapp and express your opinion concerning bribery of the corporations and the action that the Clapp committee should take.

You know only too well that when Foraker, Bailey, Lorimer, Sibley and others were sitting in Congress, supposed to be making laws FOR YOU, those men were in reality thinking and working for Archbold and the Standard Oil.

They knew what you wanted, they knew what the public wanted and needed, but they did not care.

They were getting the famous letters from Archbold, the compliments from the man worth hundreds of millions, the certificates of deposit, whose purpose was neatly concealed. And the men who sent them to Congress got nothing, while the corporations got everything.

You know that the enormously rich corporations, hiring the greatest lawyers, able to control hundreds all over the country, are bringing great pressure to bear upon the Clapp committee.

You know that the friends of Foraker, of Bailey, of Lorimer, of Archbold, the thousands of manufacturers and business men, and others that deal with Standard Oil, are using their influence to persuade Senator Clapp and his committee not to take the Standard Oil matter very seriously.

All the associates of the Standard Oil bribegivers, all the friends of corrupt Senators are not only writing the Clapp committee, but going personally to Washington, seeing members of the committee, talking to them, seeking to misrepresent public sentiment.

And, in addition, the greatest corporation lawyers—which means the greatest and most conscienceless villains in the United States, the most willing corrupters of justice for pay—all of these are at the service of the Standard Oil bribers, and they work very ably, for they are intelligent criminals.

It is necessary that the honest voter, the man who wants justice in this country, honest legislation, free from bribery by the Standard Oil or any other corporation, should impress upon the Clapp committee what HE THINKS. Sit down NOW and write a letter, no matter how short, to Senator Clapp, head of the Clapp committee. Address it to

SENATOR CLAPP,
The Capitol,
Washington, D. C.

Ask him that the letter which you write to him be laid before the other members of the committee for their information, if they care to see it.

Senator Clapp is an honorable man and will keep the confidence of

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

CARNEGIE LIBERALITY

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—We have been reading so much lately about the way Mr. Carnegie is planning to do away with his fortune that I believe it is a good opportunity for the people as a whole to set forth their opinions on this subject. Perhaps the Carnegie Foundation might find some of them of practical application.

Instances are seen, as somebody has already pointed out, in which large donations are given to parties which are not in real need of them, and, it seems to me, that Mr. Carnegie's purposes are not being carried out entirely. If he intends to "help humanity" with his millions he has got to get at the very bottom of humanity—down to the poor widow, to the poor invalid, to the poor college student who is in need. Here we have one instance in which Mr. Carnegie donates a new building to a certain college, or increases its endowment fund, or creates a new university; all this is "help humanity."

But the struggle, poor and rich, have to pay for a room in that building, pay the same tuition, and the real "help" is never felt.

Don't you think, Mr. Editor, that the Carnegie Foundation should have a students' and bureau for the purpose of helping needy students directly by granting them scholarships or securing suitable employment for them?

A NEEDY STUDENT.

SPECIAL LETTER CARRIERS

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—Concerning the editorial on "More Pay for Letter Carriers. They Should Be One Feature of Parcel Post, and Without Delay." Surely this is a worthy thought, or a thought worthy of consideration; I don't mean to presume, but I think that if it takes a certain kind of special stamps, why shouldn't they put on a certain kind of special letter carriers, and, if the other usual mail carriers are still put to the trouble of carrying those special stamped parcel post packages, they should be remembered in a special way aside from their usual monthly pay as letter carriers, for they would become package carriers also, and supposing they should get many and many eleven-pound packages, surely their backs would break under the load.

I say special parcel post carriers should carry the packages which demand special parcel post stamps, and not let the delivery of packages interfere with the regular and prompt delivery of mail, because people would rather have their mail promptly delivered, at least I would.

What Is the Difference Between William Rockefeller and an Ordinary Runaway Pickpocket?

Rockefeller, at Last Brought to Tell the Truth About His Acts, Ashamed, and Afraid to Tell, Hides Like a Criminal, Dodges, and at Last, After Defying the Law, Yields to Necessity. What Punishment for Him?

Copyright, 1913, by American Journal-Examiner.

William Rockefeller has piled up hundreds of millions for himself and many other millions for his associates.

He represents in the public mind the Standard Oil series of crimes that Ida Tarbell has described, partly, in her interesting history of dishonest and criminal finance.

The people of the United States, through the Pujo Committee, want to know just how money is gathered together and controlled in this country, and William Rockefeller is ordered to tell the truth.

Instead of obeying the order of Congress, as the law declares that he shall do, instead of appearing like a man to testify and clear himself if he can, Rockefeller hides like a criminal, barricades himself in his house, escapes at last on a yacht, and only when he learns that a jail sentence will reward his defiance does he announce that he will obey the law and give his testimony.

For such contempt for the public authority and such defiance of the power of Congress there should be some punishment—and there WOULD be punishment, if Rockefeller were some LITTLE man, thus defying some one of the privately owned Standard Oil judges.

For William Rockefeller, however, there will quite certainly be NO punishment. We are lucky, in this country, if we can get such a man to condescend to obey the order of the United States Congress—his money makes punishment out of the question.

A pack of trained, tricky and dishonest lawyers—ready to show how any law can be defied—will attend him. Sycophantic doctors can be found—,or a consideration—to testify on their "professional honor" that it would be very bad for Mr. Rockefeller's health to tell the truth about Standard Oil rascalities—and once more the public will learn that we have one set of laws for little people and a very different set for such men as Rockefeller, with hundreds of millions accumulated, with Senators on the Standard Oil pay roll and judges promoted from Standard Oil law offices to a Standard Oil judgeship.

those who write to him, and so will the other members of the committee.

You can express your feelings as freely as you choose in writing to this committee. And the committee will be very glad to learn by the receipt of a few thousands, or tens of thousands of letters, what the voters of the country think about Archbold, Bailey, Foraker and the gang that the Standard Oil letters exposed.

It is better to write your own letter, but if you are in a hurry you can clip out and sign the letter below, or copy it and sign it, or write another something like it. You can strengthen any part of it you like by adding what seems proper.

Cut out this letter, sign it, put it in an envelope, with a one-cent stamp, leaving the envelope unsealed, and the Clapp committee will get it and know WHAT YOU THINK about bribery by corporations:

To Senator Clapp,
The Capitol, Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir—I respectfully lay before you my opinion as an American voter in regard to the investigation which your honorable committee is now conducting into corruption and bribery of public officials by corporations, and ask that you show this letter to the members of your committee.

I believe the United States infinitely better off for the absence of such men as Bailey and Foraker from the lawmaking body.

I consider John D Archbold, of the Standard Oil Company, the man whose letters convict him of using his money to influence legislation, as a dangerous element of society, one who has done what he could to destroy the republican government under which his wealth has been accumulated.

I congratulate you and the committee on your effort to bring out the facts and I urge you to further drastic and relentless examinations and investigation of the system which enables money organized in corporations to control so largely the government of the United States.

In denouncing Archbold, Foraker, Bailey and the others made conspicuous by the Standard Oil letters, I express the opinion of all the fellow-citizens with whom I have talked.

I assure you that the voters of this country will feel very much relieved, and will greatly rejoice if the work of your committee shall emphasize the fact that givers and takers of bribes will ply their trade in future at great personal risk.

It is my opinion that the individuals connected with the Standard Oil cases of bribery and corruption, whether they be givers of bribes or receivers of bribes, should be not merely reprimanded or dismissed from office, but criminally prosecuted and put in jail.

I know only too well that if these men were ordinary citizens, without great wealth or influence, they would have been jailed long ago for conduct less harmful to the public.

Assuring you of my confidence in your intentions and in that of your committee, and trusting that the results of your work will be of such a character as to diminish bribe giving in legislative bodies, and to impress fear of public opinion even upon corporation corruptionists in the future, I am, yours respectfully,

If you will cut out that letter, or, better still, copy it, or, better still, write another better one and mail it to "Senator Clapp, The Capitol, Washington, D. C.," you and those who do the same with you will do more than half a dozen newspapers could do to push along the work of honest, energetic investigation of bribery by corporations. Here is an opportunity for the good citizens to do a good and useful thing. We hope that our readers will not neglect it.
